Kato Says Japan Needs 70 Per Cent Naval Ratio

JAPANESE LEADER DECLARES HIGHER FIGURE ESSENTIAL

In Interview, He Reiterates Need of Japan for Adequate Fleet to Protect Interests.

STRESSES IMPORTANCE OF COMPLETE ACCORD

Says Main Issue Is Reduction of Armament Burdens, Ratio of Power Secondary.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, November 28.—To safeguard properly the interests of the Japanese empire the ratio of 70 per cent in tonnage of capital ships is necessary, Vice Admiral Kanji Kato, president of the Japanese naval college and chief naval adviser to the Japanese delegation to the Washington conference, said to the Associated Press tonight in an interview.

Vice Admiral Kato, who is regarded as the leading Japanese authority on naval strategy, declared that the main issue for the conference on limitation of armament was the reduction of armament burdens.

"Japan accepts this issue wholeheartedly," he continued, "and is quite prepared to scrap capital ships under construction and old battleships. The naval ratio is a question of grave concern to the security of the nations. I hope the United States will accept the 70 per cent for Japan which is the minimum of rength required for her security."

For Full Agreement.

The vice admiral, remarked that the agreement to limit armaments must be accomplished by a thorough understanding of all those participating.

"People of all countries," he said, "must be in full agreement, otherwise even though an agreement be made, it might create an unpleasant feeling and defeat its purpose. To meet the desires of the Japanese people, as to their national defense, I believe that a 70 per cent ratio as compared with the United States and Great Britain is necessary.

"The main issue in the limitation of armament, as I have stated above, is to relieve the burdens of the nations. Japan has shown her hearty accord to the idea and has agreed to the wholesale scrapping of capital ships under construction as well as old ships. This practically means that the great purpose of the conference has been attained, because it indicates that in the future there will come about huge reduction in naval expenditure. There is another point to which I would like to call your attention. When you think about the sacrifice made by the nations represented at this conference it seems clear that the degree of sacrifice is very great for Japan. I mean that it will be felt more keenly by us than by the United States because our industrial and shipbuilding power cannot be compared to that of America.

Not Principal Issue.

"When it comes to national aspirations and the general security of the state, I believe it best for the country concerned to decide what these national aspirations are and what security is needed to safeguard them.

The preamble to the American proposals specifically says that the United

PROPERTY OWNERS MUST PAY TAXES BEFORE THURSDAY

Fi fas will be issued by the city against all property on which the tax has not been paid at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, it was announced Monday by the board of city tax assessors. The fi fas carry with them heavy penalties.

"Wednesday positively will be the last day," said W. M. Bearden, chief clerk in the tax assessor's office. "The time limit fixed by law for payment of the last installment of city taxes was on October 15, but the time has been extended several times to accommodate those who had failed to respond.

The amount of city tax this year is $1.50 on the $100, the rate having been raised from $1.25 through a referendum held in August. Those who paid at the rate of $1.25 previous to the advance are required to pay the additional 25 cents on the $100.

CONFERENCE ACTS TO LIFT FOREIGN YOKE FROM CHINA

Agree Monday on Withdrawal of All Foreign Postoffices From Chinese Soil.

WITHDRAWAL ASKED OF FOREIGN TROOPS

This and Other Extra-Territorial Rights Questions to Be Tackled at Early Date.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, November 28.—Taking its first direct action toward the liberation of China from foreign influences the arms conference agreed today on the withdrawal of foreign postoffices and postal systems from Chinese soil.

The decision was conditioned only on the maintenance by China of efficient postal facilities of her own, including retention of the preesnt domestic organization by which a French co-director general acts as adviser to the Chinese postal authorities. January 1, 1923, virtually was agreed upon as the date of withdrawal, the Japanese alone withholding final approval on that point pending consultation with Tokio.

Constituting the first concrete application of the principle of Chinese administrative integrity as delineated in the "four points" of Elihu Root, the postal agreement is expected to be followed tomorrow by another providing for gradual abolition of the system of extra-territorial rights under which a dozen foreign governments have set up their own courts in China and by a decision on China's request that foreign troops quartered within her borders without treaty sanction be withdrawn.

May Mean Trouble.

The question of troop withdrawal may lead the delegates into some of the most troublesome questions of the Far East. Some of the forces which the Chinese declare are in China without authority are Japanese quartered along the line of the Shantung railway and others are within the debated territory, or south Manchuria. Thus the negotiations promise to touch upon the Shantung and Manchurian controversies for the first time, although it is considered likely that the

G. O. P. IS WORRIED ON HARDING PLAN FOR 'ASSOCIATION'

Leaders See Surrender to Democratic Demand for League of Nations in Move.

SAYS PUBLIC OPINION FORCED HARDING HAND

But All Save Irreconcilable, Politically Prejudiced, Accept Suggestion as Inevitable Outcome.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, November 28.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—The republican leaders are today growing desperate in their studied efforts to differentiate between the Harding "Association of Nations," which the president has eventually half-heartedly promulgated, in difference to the storm of public opinion, and the "League of Nations," which is the same under a different name, as originated and advocated by Woodrow Wilson, when he was president. The efforts of the republican administration leaders are so unmistakably based upon political expediency, that already the irreconcilable group in the senate has kicked out of the traces.

The bald fact stands out tonight, therefore, that while the international arms parliament, now in session in Washington, was in reality called by President Harding to appease the senate group led by Borah, who introduced the original resolution for a led by Borah, who is the spokesman of the hour, is the most bitter in denounciation of President Harding for what he declares in substance to be a surrender on the part of the republican party to the democratic demand for a league of nations.

The senate chasm between the two wings of the republican party, therefore, instead of dissipating is widening to new and heretofore unheard of naval holiday, that same group, also proportions.

Seen As Inevitable.

On the other hand, the democrats of the nation—and the people generally who are not subjected to irreconcilable prejudice—having accepted the president's suggestion for an asso-

GLASS INDUSTRY COMBINE CHARGED

Conspiracy Between Union and Producers to Limit Production Charged in Indictments.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, November 28.—The federal grand jury, late today, returned an indictment charging fifty-one individuals and fifty-three corporations in the window-glass industry with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Joseph M. Neenan, president of the National Glass Workers' union, also was indicted on similar charges.

In naming President Neenan, the indictment charges conspiracy between the labor union and the glass producers to limit production, thereby enabling the defendants to arbitrarily maintain excessive prices for the commodity.

The Johnson Brokerage company, an alleged selling agency, also was named in the indictment. This agency, the indictment declares, was part of "a price scheme to enable the defendants to combine, to dictate terms of sale and to eliminate competition." The indictment of Mr. Neenan, according to William Hayward, federal district attorney, will test the validity of provisions of the Clayton act and the civil sundries service bill extending immunities to labor organizations under the anti-trust laws.

Corporation Locations.

The corporation defendants named are located in Delaware, West Virginia, Indiana, New Jersey, Wyoming, Kansas, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. They include, Mr. Hayward declared,

Gazing In Crystal Globe, Lena Clarke Tells Own Story

Woman Uses Clairvoyant Aid on Witness Stand at Trial for Murder.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Orlando, Fla., November 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—The jury hearing the case of Lena M. T. Clarke and Baxter H. Patterson, charged with murder of Fred A. Miltimore, local restaurant keeper, today heard the woman's history recited under the spell of a crystal globe held before her.

Unique in the annals of jurisprudence, the woman, an announced devotee of the ouija and other mystic rituals, had the crystal steadily before her in order that she could, as she explained it, concentrate. She held Miltimore responsible for the thief of $38,000 from the West Palm Beach postoffice in 1918, which reflected on the honesty of her brother Paul. Her attempt to cover this shortage culminated in her taking $32,000 from a registered package late in July

BUDGET APPROVED FOR IMPROVEMENT OF WATER SYSTEM

Plans Call for Expenditure of $1,800,000 in 1922 Out of $2,850,000 Voted Department.

36-INCH WATER MAIN WILL COST $799,940

School Committee of the Bond Commission Will Hold Meeting Today to Consider Program.

A budget for improvements in the waterworks system in 1922 calling for the expenditure of $1,800,000 of the $2,850,000 of bond money allotted to the water department, was approved Monday afternoon by joint subcommittees of the bond commission and the water board, and will be submitted at a general meeting of the bond commission this morning at 11 o'colck for adoption. If adopted, the budget will next be presented to city council for adoption by that body.

Items of the budget, the cost figures being approximate, are as follows:

Construction of a 21,0000,000-gallon filter plant and a 10,000,000-gallon filtered water reservoir, $750,000.

Purchase of Water Main.

Purchase and laying of an additional big 36-inch water main from the river pumping station to the great reservoir at Hemphill station, $799,940.

Additional pump at the Chattahoochee station, $150,000.

Smokestack and breeching connection at the river station, $175,000.

Distributing mains to reinforce the system of lines in the city, $82,760.

The remaining $1,050,000, probably will not be expended until after next year, it is said. Plans for improvements that this money will build have not been worked out.

Plans and estimates on which the subcommittees acted Monday were prepared by P. H. Norcross, Atlanta engineer.

School Committee to Meet.

The school committee of the bond commission will hold an organization meeting following the session of the bond commission Tuesday, it was announced Monday by Frank M. Inman, the chairman.

W. A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, announced that the school department will recommend the immediate erection of twelve school annexes to relieve the congestion now existing. Recommendations probably will be made, also, regarding the school survey planned before deciding on a definite program for the schools provided in the bond issue.

Atlanta architects have offered to assist the bond commission and the board of education in planning the proposed program for new schools. The methods and plans suggested by the local architects will be presented to the joint committee of the bond commission and the board of education Tuesday.

ARBUCKLE'S STORY COMPLETE DENIAL OF STATE CHARGE

Comedian Says He Found Suffering Girl in Bathroom When He Went to Dress.

GUESTS AT GAY PARTY WERE UNKNOWN TO HIM

He Tells of Calling Others and Trying to Relieve Pain of Virginia Rappe.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

San Francisco, November 28.—His testimony a sweeping denial of all allegations presented by the state in its prosecution of the manslaughter charge against him, Roscoe C. Arbuckle spent the greater part of today on the witness stand giving in detail, under direct and cross-examination, his story of the hotel party during which the state maintains Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, received injuries from which she later died.

Arbuckle said he threatened to throw Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont out a window when she took exception to the manner in which he was assisting Miss Rappe. Mrs. Delmont, a guest of the party, swore to the murder charge against Arbuckle, which was later reduced to the manslaughter charge now on trial.

"I did not hear Miss Rappe say anything that could be understood," he testified. "She did not say 'he hurt me.' Although she was the one who had the phonograph brought into the suite during the party, she did not dance."

Didn't Know Guests.

Arbuckle admitted having been and partaken of liquor in the room, and said it was provided by Fred Fischbach, his roommate. He testified that he knew no one at the party except Miss Rappe and her friend, Al Semnacher, and did not even know there was going to be a party until the guests had actually arrived. He was preparing to keep another engagement, he said, while the party was going on.

The defense announced it would close today.

Arbuckle's examination was completed at 3:13 p. m., and he was excused from the stand.

Gavin McNab, chief counsel for the defense, said he would close the de-

White Children Taught at Negro Schools, Says Sims

Interest at city hall Monday shifted in the controversy between Councilman Walter A. Sims and Mayor Key over the mayor's veto of the segregating ordinance passed by city council a week ago, to the statement of the councilman published Sunday that there are white children in Atlanta attending negro schools.

This assertion fell like a bombshell in school circles and was the subject of inquiries and discussions all day.

Councilman Sims, in a communication Sunday in The Constitution, stated:

"I have been informed since the mayor vetoed this ordinance, that there are white children in Atlanta attending negro schools, and it is my purpose to appeal to the southern manhood in the city council and ask them to enact this ordinance over the mayor's veto."

Answering inquiries, Superintendent W. A. Sutton declared that the statement was not true with regard to the public schools. "The negro schools are attended by negro children only and the white schools by white children only," he said. "There is absolutely no mixing of the races in the schools."

Seen by a Constitution reporter, Mr. Sims said that his statement referred to Clarke university, a negro institution here, where, he said, residents of the community had informed him white children were being taught.

He stated that he is conducting an investigation to find out who the families are and the names of the children, and intends to lay the situation before city council. He asserted that a citizen told him he would make an affidavit that white children of two families were receiving instruction at the colored college.

Hero Commander Of 'Lost Battalion' Disappears at Sea

"Go to Hell" Whittlesey Strangely Missing From Havana-Bound Steamer.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, November 28.—Lieutenant Colonel Charles W. Whittlesey, hero of the famous "lost battalion," has disappeared from the steamship Toloa, on which he sailed Saturday for Havana, according to a wireless message received here today.

News of the famous soldier's disappearance came in the following message received here from the captain of the ship:

"Passenger named W. C. Whittlesey disappeared. Left several letters."

Officials of the United Fruit line, operators of the ship, confirmed the fact that the passanger in question was Lieutenant Colonel Whittlesey through his relatives.

Members of Mr. Whittlesey's law firm here were at a loss to account for his proposed visit to Cuba. When he left the offices of the firm Friday

$25,000 IN GIFTS MARKS Y. M. C. A. DRIVE FOR FUNDS

Workers Express Greatest of Confidence That $100,000 Needed Will Be in Hand Soon.

CANVASSERS TO BEGIN WORK THIS MORNING

First Meeting of Campaigners Featured by Enthusiastic Addresses by Leading Atlantans.

Nearly 200 of Atlanta's representative business and professional men were present at 66 North Broad street last night when the Y. M. C. A. campaign for $100,000 was vigorously launched, and its success predicted by many speakers.

The spirit of the meeting reached its heighth during the speech of J. K. Orr, who called upon various persons to punctuate his remarks by telling briefly what has been done to get the drive under way. These interruptions were principally devoted to announcements of advance gifts, which totaled $25,000. Mr. Orr first summoned Mrs. S. F. Boykin, president of the women's auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., and her speech brought a cheer.

"Yes, we women are interested," she said, "and have been, and will continue to be. At a meeting recently we decided to make the first subscription to the campaign and I am glad to announce it tonight as $1,000. And all of the returns are not yet in."

$1,020 Added.

Then P. M. Colbert, general secretary of the central association, said:

"The staff of central branch wants to add another $1,000—$1,020, to be exact," he said, and that brought another eruption of cheering.

The third invited interruption was made by John Brice, of The Atlanta Journal.

"As spokesman for the three Atlanta papers," he said, "I want to say that they are firmly behind this campaign. We believe in the association because of what it is doing for the boys of Atlanta. We believe in it to the extent of all the space that is needed in our news columns to tell the people about it. And we believe in it stronger than that. The Constitution pledges $1,000, The Georgian another $1,000 and The Journal $1,000—$3,000, which I am glad to announce."

Whereupon Mr. Orr demanded to know how the directors of the association thought about it and invited George Winship, president of the board, to speak.

Thinks $20,000 Worth.

"So far," said Mr. Winship, "the board thinks about $20,000 worth, and we're hoping for additional thoughts."

Thus, with $25,000 pledged, the campaign was inaugurated and the workers were given the stimulus of a high standard.

The opening meeting began with a concert by the Rotary Boys' band,

VANDERLIP OFFERS PLAN ON SETTLING DEBTS OF EUROPE

Banker Would Have Allies Acknowledge Justice of Debt, and U. S. Accept Easy Payments.

WOULD USE PAYMENTS TO REBUILD EUROPE

Says Payment in Goods Would Injure U. S., and Rehabilitated Europe Means World Prosperity.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, November 29.—Recognition by the allies of their eleven-billion-dollar debt to America as a just debt, agreement by this country to easy payments and the money thus repaid to be used in rehabilitating Europe was a plan proposed tonight by Frank A. Vanderlip, New York banker, for settling the obligations of the war.

Mr. Vanderlip, who returned recently from Europe, where he made an exhaustive study of economic conditions, spoke before the Economic club. He said he had discussed the debt with the leading responsible government ministers and financiers of Europe and nearly every nation admitted inability to pay.

The United States would be hurt as much by the rapid receipt of payment in the form of goods, the only possible form of payment in view of the demoralization of foreign exchange, he said, as the allied debtors would be harmed in making the payment.

Effect of Payments.

"The full consequence would be profound," he said, "if the payments could be made and were made with any degree of promptness. We need not look further than to contemplate merely the receipts of $500,000,000 a year of interest. If that came in the form of goods, our industrial situation would be upset in a way and to an extent we have not heretofore experienced. The effect upon our labor situation and the consequent social problems which would be realized would be menacing."

The first postulate in his plan, Mr. Vanderlip said he would lay down the principle that the allied debt was a just debt, legal and morally, and whether it could be paid or not, it should be cheerfully and gratefully acknowledged as a just debt.

"Next, I would want America to be both an intelligent and a lenient

POLICEMEN BATTLE STRIKERS IN N. O.

On Five-Block Front, 250 Bluecoats Struggle for Hour With Union Sympathizers.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New Orleans, November 28.—Two hundred and fifty policemen battled for an hour late today with union sympathizers of the striking river-front workers. The battle extended over a space of five blocks in the vicinity of the foot of Canal street. Numerous arrests were made and a number of injured were sent to hospitals.

The clash was the first serious disturbance that has marked the strike, in which 12,000 men are out. Rioting started when non-union workers began to leave their jobs for the day. Iron bars, bricks, clubs and fists were used freely by both sides.

Police reserves from every station in the city, even from across the river, many of them armed with shotguns, were called to the scene. Police Superintendent Guy R. Maloney led his force in person, while officers and patrolmen alike plunged into the struggle, plying clubs liberally. No shots were fired.

The official estimate is that at least twenty men were seriously beaten, although many of these had not reached hospitals for some time after the fight, preferring to make their escape down side streets rather than face an ambulance ride through the steadily augmented force of strike sympathizers. Two bystanders are among those who were badly hurt.

BERRIEN IS SHORT TOTAL OF $43,000, CLAIM OFFICIALS

Conference Will Be Held Today for Purpose of Deciding on Receivership Proceedings.

CUMMINGS BOND ISSUE ENTERS INVESTIGATION

Berrien Had Been Awarded Issue and Had Transferred Equity in This Account to Local Bank.

Additional shortages in the state school warrant account handled by R. N. Berrien, Jr., will bring the total of the alleged embezzlement of Berrien to approxmately $43,000 it was learned Monday from Superintenlent of Education M. L. Brittain. The original warrant for the arrest of Berrien on the embezzlement charge was sworn out last Monday by Superintenlent Brittain and charged the broker with embezzlement of $35,000 of state funds. Berrien has been missing since last Monday and the sheriff of Fulton county, city police authorities and Pinkerton detectives have reported that they have not been able to locate the missing broker.

Another development in the case came Monday when Superintendent Brittain and Attorney-General George M. Napier held a conference to discuss plans for asking for a receivership of Berrien's brokerage business and other assets. It was announced by both officials following the conference that no action in the eceivership plans would be undertaken until authorized by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick.

Governor Leaves City.

Superintendent Brittain and Attorney-General Napier were ready to confer with the governor Monday but the governor was called to Sandersville to attend the funeral of Judge Ben Rawlings whose son, Fred Rawlings, is a son-in-law of the governor. When called over the long distance telephone Governor Hardwick said he would be at his office Tuesday morning and would hold a conference with Superintendent Brittain and Mr. Napier early Tuesday morning.

The additional shortages alleged in Berrien's school warrant account were discovered when partial reports were received by Superintendent Brittain from educational officials of Chattooga, Dade and Murray counties. When the first list of alleged shortages was made public by Superintendent Brittain, it was announced that it was possible that the Dade, Chattooga, and Murray funds were involved. Superintendent Brittain said Monday there had been delay in hearing reports from these counties but said he had received information which assured him that two of the counties were involved and probably the third. He said his additional information warranted him in stating that the total alleged shortage now reaches approximately $43,000.

Reason for Delay.

The reason the fate of the checks sent by Berrien to the three counties had not been learned sooner was that the county officials had deposited the checks to the credit of the school fund but had not given out any checks of their own against the account, hence had not discovered that the original Berrien checks had been turned down when sent to Atlanta.

If Governor Hardwick authorizes such a move receivership proceedings will be brought against the estate of Berrien, including both personal and real property, in the Fulton superior court, Attorney-General Napier said. This question will be decided at the conference to be held Tuesday in the governor's office which will be attended by the governor, Superintendent Brittain and Attorney-General Napier.

Attorney-General Napier has finished his opinion on legal questions raised in the Berrien case and will confer with the governor about this phase of the case Tuesday. The governor asked the attorney-general to rule on the question of whether or not the county and city education boards would have to stand the losses in the Berrien case and in the event these boards were not responsible to determine exactly which state agency would have to bear such losses. The attorney-general has prepared an opinion which covers all points suggested by the governor.

Awarded Bond Issue.

It developed Monday that Berrien recently was awarded a bond issue of $25,000 for the town of Cumming, county seat of Forsyth county, and had transferred his equity in this account to a local bank. The bonds had not been turned over to him, however, and officials of the town of Cumming came to Atlanta to discuss with Superintendent Brittain methods to be used to keep them out of Berrien's hands.

Superintendent Brittain explained that the Cumming bond issue was entirely separate from any of the state's dealing with Berrien and that Berrien's only equity in the bond purchase would be the commission he received, if any, for handling the bonds. He said he would seek through the receivership to obtain possession of the latter hypothecated with the bank in connection with the Cumming bonds.

"As superintendent of schools I would not like to see the Cumming people delayed in their new school building," he said.

Superintendent Brittain said Monday he still was hopeful that friends of Berrien would come to his aid and that the alleged shortages would be made good. He said he had heard that friends of Berrien in Waynesboro were willing to help him in the case.

It was learned Monday that all records in the office of Berrien have been removed together with a steel safe and desk. It was said that the furniture was removed under instructions issued by Miss Maria Berrien, a sister of the missing broker, who is a practicing attorney in Washington, D. C.

DAVIDSON DORMITORY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Charlotte, N. C., November 28.—The historic Chambers building at Davidson college, used as a dormitory in which 130 students of the institution were living, was burned this morning, the fire being discovered in the cupola at 5 o'clock. The structure was a total loss, but students succeeded in saving the greater part of their personal effects.

The Chambers building was erected in 1837. It was the dormitory in which former President Woodrow Wilson lived while a student at Davidson.

JURY IS COMPLETED FOR ASSAULT TRIALS

New Bedford, Mass., November 28. A Bristol county jury was selected today to try John Dies, Benjamin Gomes and Joseph Andrews, Cape Verde negroes, for alleged assault at Bourne last summer on a young white woman. They will be tried at the same time on charges of robbing and assaulting William O. Eldridge, who was escorting the young woman from a dance when the incident occurred. There was no great difficulty about completing the jury today, however, only 39 talesmen being examined.

SCHOOLGIRL HANGS SELF AT ATHENS

Athens, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—Miss Ruby Landrum, 17-year-old normal school student from Stephens, Ga., hanged herself in the bath room on the third floor of the Bradberry dormitory at the State Normal school here Monday at 1 o'clock. She died of strangulation, according to the three doctors who were members of the coroner's jury that made the inquest shortly after the tragedy occurred.

Her lifeless body was discovered hanging by a rope of twisted towels from a steam pipe running through the bath room. The discovery was made about noon by Miss Minnie Perry, student rooming on the same floor, who climbed up on a chair and looked through the transom to ascertain the reason why the bath room door was locked.

At the inquest it was decided death of Miss Landrum, at her own hands, came about as the result of insanity, a climax to the melancholia of which she had been suffering for the past three weeks.

Dr. S. S. Smith stated:

"I am sure that the death at her own hands was through insanity."

Dr. H. J. Reynolds stated: "This is but a climax to a three weeks' period during which she was mentally unbalanced."

Dr. Ralph Goss stated: "Undoubtedly at the time she did this she was insane. This insanity was perhaps the climax to a period of melancholia."

Miss Landrum, according to the testimony that was given at the coroner's inquest, was attending the normal school through the generosity of Miss Dowdle, of the State College of Agriculture, and has made a very high record.

For some unknown reason, however, according to the testimony given by Miss Dowdle, Miss Landrum thought that she was not doing as well as was expected of her and for the last three weeks had been writing Miss Dowdle letters in which were such expressions as: "I wish that I were dead. I know that it is sinful to say such, but it is the truth."

The physicians who were members of the coroner's jury used this as basis for their verdict.

Miss Landrum has a father, J. W. Landrum, and two brothers living, both residents of Stephens, who were immediately notified.

fense case with the reading of Chicago and New York depositions and with an offer to prove that George Glennon, hotel detective, obtained a statement tending to clear Arbuckle, from Miss Rappe. Glennon's testimoney was ruled out last week.

Miss Louise Glaum, motion picture actress, and six other persons well known in the Hollywood movie colony, for whom subpoenas were issued yesterday, had not been called to the stand late today.

Arbuckle testified that the party in his rooms was entirely impromptu, that only a few had been invited but that the others had dropped in later and remained. He declared that he had an engagement to go out and when he left the party and went into his bedroom it was for the purpose of changing his clothes to keep his appointment.

"I locked my door to keep the women and others out of the room. Then I went into the bathroom. The bathroom door struck against the prostrate form of Miss Rappe. That was the first time I knew she was in the room," Arbuckle said.

She Was Gasping.

"Then what did you do?" Leo Friedman, assistant district attorney, conducting the cross-examination, asked.

"I picked her up and held her head."

"Did you say anything to her?" he was asked.

"Not a word; she was gasping and had a hard time getting her breath. Later I asked her: 'Is there anything I can do for you?' She said, 'No, just leave me lie on the bed.' Before this I had given her two glasses of water."

"How did she get from the bathroom to the bed?"

"She walked. I helped her a little."

Placed On Bed.

Later Arbuckle returned to the bathroom. When he returned he testified Miss Rappe was "thrashing about" on the floor. The witness said he picked her up and placed her on the bed, demonstrating the manner in which he did so.

"Did she say anything then?"

"I don't remember. She was groaning, holding her stomach and twisting about."

"Then where did you go?"

"I went out of the room. The first person I saw was Miss Prevost. I said 'Virginia is sick.'"

"Miss Prevost was close to the door when I went out. I did not see Mrs. Delmont. I could not tell how long I was in the room."

Arbuckle Angry.

Arbuckle grew somewhat angered under Friedman's questions, putting somewhat of a snap into his answers.

"When I returned," he said, "Virginia was tearing at her clothes. One sleeve of her dress was hanging by a few threads and I pulled it off. Later I told Harry Boyle, assistant manager of the hotel, 'the girl is sick and I want to get her another room.'"

"You never told anyone anything except that Miss Rappe was ill?"

"I did not."

"Did you hear Miss Rappe make any statement at any time after you found her ill?"

"No; except when she asked for water and wanted to lie down."

Went to Dinner.

"After Miss Rappe was taken away I put on a golf suit and soft shirt. Later I put on a dinner suit and went down to the hotel dining room."

Arbuckle squirmed in his seat and seemed uneasy under the fast-coming questions.

"I asked Mr. Doyle to get a doctor," he said.

Nobody had suggested getting a doctor until Boyle arrived, Arbuckle said.

The witness said that while he was there all of Miss Rappe's clothes were taken off and Mrs. Delmont placed an ice bag under her head.

Ice on Bed.

"There was ice on the bed, too," he said.

"I took up a piece of ice from Miss Rappe's body and Mrs. Delmont told me to put it back.

"I told her to shut up or I would throw her out of the indow." Arbuckle said while the party guests were trying to relieve Miss Rappe he told Mrs. Delmont "go and dress," as she was attired in pajamas.

"Miss Rappe was unconscious at the time ice was being applied," he said.

Frank Dominguez, Los Angeles attorney, was the first person he told of having found Miss Rappe in the bathroom, Arbuckle said. Dominguez was his former counsel.

Doctor's Deposition.

At the conclusion of Arbuckle's testimony, the defense offered the deposition of Dr. Maurice H. Rosenberg, of Chicago, who said that in 1913 he treated Miss Rappe for a bladder ailment. Miss Rappe died as the result of a bladder rupture said by the prosecution to have been caused by external force applied by Arbuckle. The defense alleges that the injury was the result of a chronic condition.

The court allowed the deposition to go into the record over the prosecutions protest.

Defense Closes.

The defense closed its case at 5:25 p. m., and court adjourned after a vain attempt to obtain admission into the record of a statement by George Glennon, hotel detective, which it was contended would exonerate Arbuckle of any responsibility for Miss Rappe's injury.

Tomorrow the prosecution will commence its presentation of rebuttal testimony. This is expected to require two days, during which time it is believed Miss Glaum will testify.

Juror Arthur H. Crane, said by his physician to be so ill his attendance at further sessions may be impossible, will be replaced by Stephen Hopkins, who has heard all the testimony, it became known today.

The case is expected to go to the jury Thursday.

Daring Burglars Preparing to Give Victims Serenade

A "burglars' orchestra" is likely to put in its appearance at any time judging from the loot taken Sunday night, when almost enough musical instruments were obtained by thieves to supply such an organization.

The thieves visited the home of Rachael Croft, 54 Dunn street, and secured the involuntary contribution of an expensive violin, which the owner avers would emit tones excelled only by the original Stradivarius.

Then the Southern Drum company, 84 1-2 Ivy street, found their stock minus a very fine mandolin and a drum. Just what else was taken, has not been ascertained.

Other reports to the police told of a visit to the Campbell-Brownlee Furniture store, 381 Edgewood avenue, where the thief worked the combination without injuring the safe, but had to jimmy his way through the inside door. He was rewarded with approximately $225 in cash, according to officials of the store.

Drugstore Robbed.

Charles A. Smith, popular druggist at 6 Peachtree street, found himself loser to the extent of about $100, when robbers broke into his establishment and robbed three cash drawers. Some perfume and other toilets were also taken.

Max Fleshner, who conducts a second-hand clothing establishment under the shadow of the police station at 154 Decatur street, told the police Monday that some one had depleted his stock of merchandise to the extent of several suits, pairs of shoes, and other articles, leaving in payment the old clothing they discarded after getting into his place.

A 60-pound tub of lard, four large cans of government bacon, jams of various kinds and cigarettes and tobacco were among the articles missed from the grocery store of A. T. Scoggins, 98 Nelson street, following an unwelcome visit from burglars late Sunday night. Scoggins seemed to find consolation in the hope that the large supply taken indicated that the rogues were going off on a long journey, or probably cease activities for a while.

Get a "Light Lunch."

Nathan Krieger, who operates a grocery store at 182 West Fair street, told the police that the robbers evidently stopped by his place to get a "light lunch" in between jobs, as they contented themselves with a few boxes of crackers, some sardines and other canned meats and fruits. They then took some cigars and cigarettes and departed.

Others thefts Sunday night, as reported to the police, included the residence of C. A. Akin, 85 Garibaldi street, who reported the loss of jewelry.

S. E. Blackwell's residence at 379 Ponce de Leon avenue, and the home of J. W. Stewart, Jr., of Kirkwood, were entered. It has not been learned what they got at Mr. Blackwell's house, but Stewart found himself short a set of drawing instruments and other articles.

Roman Kelly, of 307 Capitol avenue, "loaned," without his permission, a bicycle to the thieves. His wheel was taken from the front porch of his home while he peacefully slumbered.

Agent Exonerated By Prohi Chief For Savannah Raid

Washington, November 28.—Prohibition agents who raided the wrong house after exercising the usual care cannot be held to blame, Prohibition Commissioner Haynes in effect held today in exonerating E. B. Henson, a special agent, from charges preferred by Mayor Stewart, of Savannah, Ga.

Henson was charged by Mayor Stewart in protests sent to President Harding and the Georgia senators with having entered the home of Miss Bessie Garden, of that city, "without justification and apparently without a warrant."

Commissioner Haynes instituted an inquiry and was advised by Henson that the Garden home was raided by mistake, the entrance having been made by the raiding party which had a warrant for a house nearby. The explanation was considered as satisfactory by Mr. Haynes, it was announced today at prohibition headquarters.

Report of Agent.

The report of Henson, detailing the circumstances of the raid, was made public today by prohibition headquarters.

"Replying to your telegram," the report said, "beg to advise that under date of the 22d, Officer McCord stated that he had been in the vicinity of Whitaker street and Perry lane and had seen a man he knew to be 'Thomas,' who is part owner in a place on Jefferson street that we raided, seizing a large quantity of liquor, go into Perry lane, and that he waited around to see what took place. The car 'Thomas' was in, stopped in the lane about half way in the block and in a short while a man came out of one of exits and put what appeared to be two cases of liquor into the car; that he watched Thomas drive away; that he knew the man who placed the liquor in the car.

"I went with McCord to ascertain which exit was used. I found a number of exits and garages in a row. McCord felt confident that the location was the exit from a garage that was locked in rear of a house facing on Perry street which later I found to be a rooming or boarding house.

Secured Warrant.

"I went before United States Commissioner Richter and secured a search warrant for the buildings at the rear of 15 Perry street. Returning I could not enter the building from the alley (Perry lane) and went around to the front, rang the bell, a negro woman servant coming to the door. I told her I had a warrant to inspect the rear building. She asked me in and moved in a direction through the hall to the rear. I had three men with me; had instructed two to remain in the alley and left the other on the curb. I asked the servant what time the people would be back and she replied that they would not return before 6 o'clock. I told her I could not wait until then and asked if she didn't have the keys to the outbuilding. She answered 'no' but her attitude was very elusive. By this time I was in the rear yard and was away from the place within thirty minutes, within the time I first came to the door.

"I did not have a search warrant for the house because I had no interest in the house and was not in the house other than walking through the hall to the rear after having been admitted to the house by the negro servant.

Liquor Moved.

"I had also secured a search warrant for 21 and did not discover that the liquor had been moved from this address; from reliable sources that there were 20 cases at No. 21, but that they had moved it ahead of us and further discovered that 'Jack Murphy' admitted that he was a liquor seller, lived at No. 21, and was identified as a man who brought the two cases of liquor out to the car in the alley.

"As a result of our activities, John Garrity moved 182 sacks of liquor to 1701 1-2 Whitaker at 1:30 that night, which I seized the next day and have a warrant for Garrity.

"Everything was conducted orderly and quietly.

"Respectfully, E. B. HENSON,
"General Prihibition Agent."

Prohibition headquarters also made public a telegram from Mrs. M. A. Huglett, president of the Savannah city Woman's Christian Temperance union; Mrs. T. W. Norwood, president of the Armor Christian Temperance union, and Mrs. W. B. Stubbs, president of the Frances Willard Christian Temperance union, which stated:

"We desire emphatically that as Christian women home builders of Savannah, Ga., we most heartily approved the earnest and efficient efforts of E. B. Henson to bring to light liquor stored here for illicit use."

We always accept poetry of this kind, winter or summer: "Your paper's good and I like you. Find herewith a check and please renew. Frost's on the punkin and crops in the barn; bills all paid and I don't give a darn."—Macon (Mo.) Chronicle-Herald.

VANDERLIP OFFERS PLAN ON DEBTS

creditor," he said. "Terms of payment ought to be adopted to the means of our debtors. In that respect we should take the action of the allies in fixing the terms of the indemnity as an example to be avoided rather than followed.

"The crux of my plan would lie in the disposition of the payments.

"I would have America make a beau-jeste; a grand gesture in international relationships. While demanding that the payments be made, I would have America say that she is prepared for the present to forego the receipt of it."

Concerning what should be done with the money paid back, Mr. Vanderlip said: "I would like to see every dollar that can ever be paid us by our debtors for years to come devoted to the rehabilitation of European civilization. It is only through such rehabilitation that these debts can ever conceivably be paid. It is only through the rehabilitation of European civilization that America can ever conceivably realize in full measure her destiny or can expect a full measure of prosperity for her people."

He believed a plan for the development of eastern Europe could be laid out, he said, comparable to the vision our forefathers had when the latent possibilities of our great west were unfolded to their minds.

"Everything the war has cost," he added, "everything an unwise peace is costing can be recompensed and beyond that a great economic margin created, if eastern Europe can be put in order. can be helped and led wisely to handle its own problems; if the people of eastern Europe can be made to comprehend their economic unity, if they can be brought to understand that in the welfare of all nations lies the highest prosperity of each."

To a program of this kind he declared he would devote for many years every dollar this country could get of the allied debt.

"We need not make an irrevocable decision when we embark on this program. For a good many years I believe it would be wise for us to devote all we receive to such purposes as I have suggested. It is entirely possible, however, that there would come such economic restoration that in the end, a considerable part, conceivably nearly all of the principal might be paid to us. Interest money that we loaned and reloaned for economic development would be converted from the original obligation of the allies to obligations representing material properties which we created and probably backed by the obligations of the governments of those countries where this economic development took place. The time might come when we would cease to make these sums revolving credits for European economic development becaues there really would not be further need for us to do so. Then the money would come back to us.

"I am firmly convinced that in the great catastrophe the war has brought there has been created an opportunity which never could have otherwise arisen. The obstacles which have arisen in the path of European civilization can be turned into stepping stones, leading to a position vastly better than anything Europe has ever known. The war has made a great awakening in millions of dormant minds. It is possible that newly-awakened impulses, if they can be harnessed to the machinery of production and distribution can result in a great actual improvement of civilization. That awakening, those impulses are now disconnected from any machinery of commerce and they may all be lost in a decaying civilization. We can help to turn them to account. The possibilities that there are in society for realizing better conditions for all humanity are undreamed of. The opportunity has arisen to make these possibilities realities.

"If we insist to the letter upon our claim, our claim will in all probability never be met. If we insist upon it selfishly we will realize in hatred, but not in cash. If we are generous and wisely generous, those claims can be paid and I believe will all be paid and the good we do with them will mean more to us materially than anything we would conceivably be parting with."

AUTO ACCIDENTS INJURE TWO MEN

Frank Spivey and Man Believed to Be G. B. Weldon Suffer Fractured Skulls.

A man believed by police to be G. B. Weldon, of 262 Peters street, is in a critical condition at the Grady hospital as the result of injuries sustained at 6 o'clock Monday evening when the automobile he was driving collided with a Stewart avenue street car of the Georgia Railway and Power company, at the corner of Stewart avenue and Lillian street. He was knocked unconscious and was unable to tell who he was, although a paper found in his pockets indicated that his name was G. B. Weldon.

The car, which was in charge of Motorman J. L. Baker and Conductor A. W. Nation, was coming toward town. It had stopped at Lillian street, according to the men in charge of the car, for the purpose of receiving passengers. Just as it started forward Weldon, who, it is claimed by Motorman Baker, was traveling at a rate of speed approximating 35 miles per hour, ran directly into the front end of the car, wrecking his machine, throwing him under the street car, and jamming him against the wheels.

No Case Is Made.

Police Sergeant J. W. Barfield, who investigated the accident, did not make any case against the motorman. He stated that, according to witnesses, Weldon was at fault.

Another man, Frank Spivey, 40 years, of 12 Ashland avenue, is at the Grady with a fractured skull base. He was injured at the corner of Ponce de Leon and Moreland avenues shortly after 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, when he jumped forward from a burning motor truck belonging to the David T. Bussey company, in which he was riding.

Hale Foster, negro, who was in the truck with Mr. Spivey, was practically uninjured. He received a few bruises and scratches about the face and body.

Mr. Spivey, who is employed by David T. Bussey, was going in the service truck for the purpose of doing some repair work. The auto was going out Ponce de Leon avenue, and as it reached Moreland, it caught fire. As Mr. Spivey jumped away from the flames, his foot or clothing caught in the machine, causing him to fall on his head.

Firemen Are Summoned.

The fire department was summoned and extinguished the blaze with the use of a large chemical line.

Another automobile caught fire shortly after 6 o'clock Monday evening at the corner of Broad and Luckie streets, causing the fire department to be called out. Only slight damage was done. This car belonged to J. J. Minter, of 54 Grant street.

Considerable excitement prevailed among the students at the Girls' High school when a defective furnace filled the school building at 75 Washington street, with smoke. An alarm was turned into the fire department.

"I say, Jones, I want to insure my coalyards against fire. What would a policy for $20,000 cost?" "What coal is it? Same kind as you sent me last?" "Yes.' "I wouldn't bother insuring it if I were you. It won't burn."—Buffalo Express.

HENRY PREDICTS GREATER DEMAND FOR ELECTRIC CAR

C. W. Henry, special representative of the Detroit Electrical Car company, of Detroit, while visiting H. A. Minor, their Atlanta distributor, predicted a greatly increased demand for electric passenger cars.

Mr. Henry is well known in the automobile industry, having been district representative for Dodge Brothers for several years, and later district manager for Maxwell-Chalmers.

He states that he bases his optimistic attitude regarding the electric cars, to the fact that they have been able to produce cars that will give better and longer service, more speed, and longer mileage from a charge."

BLACK FOX SQUIRRELS GIVEN GRANT PARK ZOO

Two balck fox squirrels, discovered in the woods by John and Elwin Knight, youths who live at Ray City, Ga., are the latest acquisitions of Grant Park zoo. The mother of the squirrels, as stated in the letter written the park board, had fallen the victim of a huntsman, and the two boys decided to send their pets to the zoo where hundreds of boys and girls could see them. Another black fox squirrel was donated several days ago to the zoo by Miss Lucile Kirk, of 22 East Fifteenth street.

WHITE MAN SNATCHES MRS. SCOTT'S PURSE

An unidentified white man grabbed the pocketbook of Mrs. A. L. Scott, 112 Windsor street, from her hand as she was walking along Rawson street, near Central avenue, Monday night.

Her screams attracted the attention of several men and boys, who pursued the thief as he fled between houses and into an alley nearby, making his escape. There was about $15 in money, eyeglasses and other articles in the handbag.

ROBBERS OF TAXICAB DRIVERS ARE SOUGHT

Police Monday were searching for three white youths who held up C. C. Belcher, taxi driver, of 354 East Georgia avenue, on Whitehall street and Humphries, and robbed him of $12 in money. He stated the boys engaged him at the Union passenger station to take them for a ride.

EXPECT NEW OFFER FROM HENRY FORD

Washington, November 28.—Government officials in touch with the negotiations of Henry Ford for purchase and lease of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., nitrate and water-power projects, said today they expected to receive soon from Mr. Ford a modified proposal, probably a complete substitution for that now under discussion.

The expected offer would be an outgrowth of the recent conference here between Secretary of Commerce Hoover; Major-General Beach, chief of army engineers, and Mr. Ford and his advisers. That conference was understood to be non-productive in the way of progress on the offer before the conferees.

Differences as to the present proposal exist between the government's representatives and Mr. Ford which apparently cannot be removed. It was said authoritatively today that if the proposal was submitted to congress in its present form, that body undoubtedly would reject it.

Congress Would Reject.

Belief that congress would reject the offer was said to be justified on the ground of economy and its repeated refusal to appropriate more money for the completion of the Muscle Shoals project. If the Ford plan was accepted by congress, army officials estimate about $30,000,000 would have to be made available for the completion of the Wilson dam. Army estimates recently revised by the engineers placed the figure at between $42,000,000 and $55,000,000.

Mr. Ford has offered $28,000,000 for this week, and it was understood firmly declined in conference with Mr. Hoover to increase that allowance. Thus the negotiations have been at least temporarily abandoned until Mr. Ford, in company with Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, makes a new survey of the project.

To Modify Offer.

When Mr. Ford has made the inspection and received the advice of Mr. Edison concerning the natural possibilities of development at Muscle Shoals, officials here expect him to return with a modified proposal. What the modifications will be, they said, depended largely upon the decision to be reached later by Mr. Ford, but would probably take a form that would eliminate the existing differences.

EDUCATIONAL FUTURE BRIGHT, SAYS GUINN

Atlanta's educational facilities and policies are getting broader and the city's educational future is very bright, according to Major R. J. Guinn, a member of the city's bonding commission, who spoke before the regular meeting of the North Boulevard Park Civic league Monday night at the home of L. A. James, 947 N. Boulevard.

Following Major Guinn's speech, he was pledged the co-operation and support of the league in the handling of the different projects which will be passed on by the city bonding commission, especially those relating to school improvement.

L. A. James, who is president of the league, was then presented with a loving cup by the league in appreciation of his services as president during the last year. After a discussion of routine business, a committee was appointed to nominate members for the positions of president, vice president and secretary-treasurer to serve in 1922, and report to the next meeting, which will be held on the last Monday of December. The committee is composed of W. G. Leas, Dr. T. C. Davison, Dr. O. B. Bush, F. E. Masset and A. D. Turner.

Mr. Adair said during his brief stay in his home city that there has been a noticeable improvement in business and financial conditions as reflected in New York, especially within the past 60 days.

"The south has its ups and downs and naturally its periods of depression, but on the whole it is more solid than other parts of the country and the easterners are beginning to realize it," Mr. Adair said. "All of them believe the south will continue to develop commercially."

PLAN INVESTIGATION OF HOLMES INSTITUTE

To ascertain if the place is a deserving charity, an investigation will be made by Warden W. H. Johnson's office into the operation of Holmes institute, a negro institution, which receives financial assistance from city funds annually.

The investigation was requested by Mayor Key after the mayor had received a complaint from Kendall Weisiger, president of the central council of social agencies, that on a recent inspection the place was "found to be anything but what it was represented to be."

Macaulay read all his articles to his sister before sending them to the publisher, and placed great reliance on her judgment.

Judge Now Denies Urging Operation On Denver Mother

Woman Also Declares She Will Not Submit to Sterilization by Surgeon.

Denver, Colo., November 28.—Judge Royal R. Graham, of Georgetown, today denied that he had recommended in court an operation for Mrs. Clyde Cassidente, of Denver, that would make it impossible for her to bear any more children, declaring he only told a reporter such an order might be entered under certain circumstances.

"After the case had been adjourned," said the judge, "I did remark to a reporter that an order directing such an operation might be entered if an investigation disclosed conditions that would make it necessary and if the consent of the parties concerned could be obtained, but as to forcing Mrs. Cassidente to submit to such an operation, that was farthest from my mind."

Mrs. Cassidente was haled before Judge Graham, sitting in the juvenile court here Saturday on complaint of Denver social workers, to show cause why her children should not be removed from her custody, the complaint alleging that the Cassidente home was filthy and that the children had been neglected and were under-nourished.

Student Suggestion.

At the hearing one of the witnesses, a medical student, stated that he believed the only remedy for conditions in the Cassidente home would be a sterilizing operation for the mother, as, according to the witness, the woman was bearing children too fast. There are five Cassidente children, the oldest eight years, and the youngest a year old.

Discussing the case after it had been given wide publicity, Judge Graham, said:

"As to the justice or advisability of such an operation, I do not care to comment. Certainly there is no law that would permit such a ruling."

Woman Objects.

Confronted by the recommendation in juvenile court here Saturday that she submit to an operation that would make it impossible for her to bear children, Mrs. Cassidente said today she would not allow such an operation to be performed upon her.

"If I have children, it is to the glory of God," she cried when her husband, an Italian interpreter, informed her of the court's recommendation. Judge Royal S. Graham, of Georgetown, Colo., presided during the hearing.

Mrs. Cassidente was brought into court on complaint of social workers alleging her children were under nourished and their home in a filthy condition. A committee was appointed by the court to investigate the case which was continued until January 10.

CLUES ARE FOUND IN MURDER CASE

Americus, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—The grand jury of Sumter superior court which convened here today will conduct a probe into the murder of William H. ("Bill") Scarborough, which remains as mysterious today as when committed several months ago. The outstanding revelations in connection with the investigations are that a well-known Americus white man was in the rear of Scarborough's store about the time of the murder, in company with a negro woman.

It has developed also that this white man was armed, and that he fired his revolver two or more times while in the field behind Scarborough's place.

Officers investigating the case have talked with him, and it is understood that, although he at first denied being in that vicinity, he subsequently admitted his presence there. Thus far he has staunchly refused to reveal the reason for his presence on Scarborough's land in company with the negro woman.

The woman, a tenant upon Scarborough's place, moved soon after the murder, and it is said she has disappeared altogether. It is believed, however, that Sheriff Harvey is cognizant of her present whereabouts, and that she will be called to testify before the present grand jury. The name of the white man in question is known only to a few persons here. Since Scarborough's murder, numerous relatives have filed their claims for a share of his estate, and a spirited legal fight over its possession is now in progress.

The estate, as finally inventoried, includes $6,000 cash in banks, approximately 100 acres of fine farming land, Scarborough's stock of goods and store fixtures, and a number of parcels of Americus rental property.

A number of Liberty bonds, known to have been purchased by the old recluse during the war loan drive, and a store of diamonds, seen in his possession only a few days before the murder, have never been located. These, it is believed, were taken by the murderer.

Legion's Highest Officials To Accompany Marshal Foch

A. T. ROBERTS FRANKLIN D'OLIER HANFORD MACNIDER

When Marshal Foch reaches Atlanta on the morning of December 9, he will be accompanied by the three highest officials of the American Legion, who have been the personal hosts of the allied generalissimo on his swing over the United States. These officers are Hanford MacNider, commander of the legion; Franklin D'Olier, who retired as commander just a few weeks ago, and Alton T. Roberts, chairman of the American Legion reception committee, who has been in active charge of the marshal's tour.

Approval of the Atlanta Legion's tentative program was received Monday by the committee in charge of arrangements, and work will now be pushed arranging final details.

Mayor Key Monday gave assurance to the legion committee that he would recommend a school holiday when the marhal comes to Atlanta, so that every child of school age in Atlanta will have the opportunity of greeting the great Frenchman. Members of the school board, likewise, are interesting themselves in the legion program, which contemplates a monster demonstration for the marshal by the pupils of the public schools.

Lieutenant Colonel Little, in command of the cadets of all the Atlanta high schools, met with the committee Monday and will co-operate by having every boy in his command out in uniform to welcome the greatest soldier of the age.

The legion committee meets again Tuesday at 1 o'clock in the Ansley rathskellar.

CHESTER CITIZENS HERE ON THE WAY TO SOUTH GEORGIA

More than fifty citizens of Chester, S. C., and vicinity, who are stockholders in the Georgia-Alabama Power company, with home offices in Albany, Ga., stopped over several hours in Atlanta Monday, while on their way to Eufaula, Ala., on an inspection trip. The Chester party traveled in two special Pullman cars.

The stockholders are going to Eufaula, Albany and other south Georgia and Alabama towns to look over the properties of the company as guests of President Dermot Shemuel. They arrived in Atlanta over the Seaboard Air Line railway Monday afternoon piloted by Traveling Passenger Agent R. E. Camp, of Atlanta. They were met here by T. J. Stewart, traveling passenger agent of the Central of Georgia railroad, who took charge of the party on the southern portion of their journey.

The Chester men were headed by W. F. Brinkley and Charles Young, business men of Chester. The stockholders left Monday night for Eufaula. After inspecting properties at Eufaula and Columbia, Ala., they will go to Fort Gaines, Ga., and thence to Albany. At Albany they will be tendered several social entertainments among which will be a barbecue given them by the Flint River Pecan company, a subsidiary of the Georgia-Alabama Power company.

The Georgia-Alabama Power company, according to the Chester men, has grown as rapidly as any similar enterprise in the country. It now ranks fifth among the power developments of the south and provides service for many substantial towns and cities in Georgia and Alabama.

Jones, assistant director. Principal raids were in Dawson, Haralson, Milton, Gilmer and Lumpkin counties.

M'CORMACK BUYS FAMOUS PAINTING AT $150,000 COST

Americans who know something of the old masters and their work read with some surprise a short time ago that the "Portrait of a Man," a famous painting by Franz Hals, the Dutch artist, had been purchased for $150,000 from the Polish minister to France by John McCormack, the Irish-American tenor, and would be hung in Mr. McCormack's handsome home near New York.

John McCormack can readily afford to pay $150,000 for a painting he likes, for it is said that his income for the last ten years has run into astonishing figures. His fees for a concert are the highest of any singer in the world and his phonograph records are said to run into the hundreds of thousands annually in royalties. And not many years ago he was an Irish village lad, glad to receive five shillings for his first public appearance in a concert at the Sligo town hall.

John McCormack will give his fifth concert in Atlanta at the Auditorium on the night of Wednesday, December 7. The sale of tickets will begin at the Cable piano store at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The Salter Musical bureau, which is presenting the series in conjunction with the Atlanta Music club, announces that reservations by mail will be given prompt attention.

INSURANCE MEETING BEGINS HERE TODAY

Delegates to the southern district convention of the State Life Insurance company, of Indiana, to be held in Atlanta Tuesday and Wednesday at the Piedmont hotel, were arriving here Monday night, and many more are expected this morning. It is expected that four members of the $100,000 and $200,000 clubs of Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Louisiana, will attend. Robert E. Sweeney, general superintendent of all agencies, will be one of the principal delegates.

SHOOTING OF POST WILL BE PROBED BY FULTON JURORS

The shooting of N. L. Post, locomotive engineer, by Mrs. T. E. Williams, in the Williams home, on Ormond street, Wednesday night, will be investigated by the Fulton county grand jury Tuesday morning.

Employees in the solicitor's office have been working on the case since Mrs. Williams was bound over to the grand jury by the coroner's jury, and Special Investigator Plennie Minor stated that much evidence not yet made public had been unearthed, and that the state would be prepared to ask for an indictment charging murder when the jury meets.

Mrs. Williams immediately following the shooting stated that she shot in defense of her honor.

NEGRO IS KILLED IN ATTEMPTING TO ENTER STORE

Moultrie, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—A negro known here only as Sneads is dead and Isiah Williams and Clarence Bryant are in jail as the result of an attempted robbery of Brownlee's store, near here, early this morning. Sneads was shot to death by J. L. Brownlee, the owner, as he was attempted to enter the building. Phillips Jones, another negro alleged to have been in the party, escaped.

Brownlee, with his family, resides in the store. The bed on which the merchant slept was just a few feet from the window through which Sneads, who seems to have been the leader of the party, was trying to gain entrance. The noise, made by the removal of putty which held the panes in place, roused Brownlee.

He got out of bed and went to the front of the store, where he kept his pistol, returning he got in bed and peered over the front of it. In the darkness a figure barely discernible was seen working away. Brownlee shot. Snead fell to the ground dead, with the knife that he had been using still clinched in his hand.

His companions fled in a motor car that was standing nearby. Later Williams and Bryant were arrested here. They denied any connection with the crime at first, but later confessed, according, to Sheriff Beard. Bryant the sheriff said, declared that it was not their first job as they recently had robbed stores in Doerun, Norman Park and Pavo.

MASSEY APPOINTED TO BOARD OF HOME

Governor Hardwick Monday announced the appointment of T. R. Massey, of Decatur, as member of the board of trustees of the Confederate Soldiers' home, of Atlanta. He succeeds Captain T. M. Myers, who died recently. He will represent the fifth congressional district on the board.

WALTER AKERMAN TO TAKE FEDERAL OFFICE SATURDAY

Walter Akerman, of Cartersville, newly appointed United States marshal for the northern district of Georgia, will assume his new duties Saturday, it was announced Monday following a conference between Mr. Akerman and Claude Bond, whom he succeeds.

It was agreed between Mr. Bond and his successor that the staff of deputy marshals will remain intact until January 1, 1922. None of the deputies will be replaced until after that date.

Mr. Bond had served nearly two years of the four-year term for which he was appointed. He has proven one of the most popular officials in the federal building. His home is in Toccoa.

LOS ANGELES HEALTH OFFICER IN ATLANTA

En route to Los Angeles after attending the recent convention of the National Health Officers' association in New York, Dr. L. M. Powers, health commissioner of Los Angeles, Cal., called on Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer of Atlanta, Monday. Dr. Powers said that he was a great admirer of Atlanta and often had wanted to visit the city.

Pain In Muscles And Joints Caused By Rheumatism

To Get Genuine Relief You Must Clear Your Blood of Waste Products.

If we could keep our human bodies clean of the poisons which accumulate in them daily, and give them the full benefit of proper diet, we should live far beyond the average span of human life.

But alas! We realize only too often that we have an excess of waste products in our system. This poisonous waste matter not only causes a lowered vitality and many forms of skin disorders, but it also causes rheumatism—a disease that has no equal for pain. Genuine relief from the egonies of rheumatism can be had only by correcting the basic trouble—waste products.

Thousands and thousands of men and women during the past 50 years have cleared their blood of waste products with S. S. S. It is the ideal remedy for rheumatism, because it removes the poisonous waste matter which is causing the trouble. There are no bad after-effects, and the result is wonderful. Begin taking S. S. QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

Take tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.—Drink lots of water.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent litha-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—(adv.)

$100,000 SUIT FILED AGAIN AGAINST K. K. K.

Attorney W. H. Terrell Monday filed for the second time his suit for $100,000 against the Ku Klux Klan for legal services alleged to have been rendered by him to that organization. The old suit was thrown out of court last Saturday by Judge W. D. Ellis because service had never been perfected.

The suit requires officials of the klan to produce the records of the order in court December 12 for a hearing on the petition.

Sheriff Lowry stated Monday that the old suit against the Ku Klux Klan had not been served on W. J. Simmons, imperial wizard of the organization, against whom the suit was brought, because it had been impossible to find him at his home. He said repeated efforts were made, but Mr. Simmons was always out of town, sometimes it being reported that he was in Washington, D. C., and at other times in Florida, where, it was said, he had been for some time on account of his health.

WILL DECIDE METHOD OF SPENDING REFUND

To decide on the expenditure of $2,554.70, which was returned to Atlanta recently by West Point, this amount having been left over out of the $20,900 donated that city during the 1919 flood, a committee of 25 women from the woman's department of the local chamber of commerce will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the chamber building. A discussion of methods will be held, Mayor Key will speak, and a chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer of the committee will be elected. Mayor Key, and Miss Laura Smith, head of the woman's department, will be ex-officio chairmen of the committee.

The three points which must be followed in deciding on a methods, or methods, follow:

First, the money must be spent in a manner which will commemorate the courage and fine spirit of the city of West Point, and thus serve to cement the good feeling between the two cities.

Second, it must be spent for the good of the public at large in keeping with the purpose for which the fund was donated.

Third, the manner in which the money is spent must meet with the approval of the mayor, as representing the city of Atlanta.

The meeting of the committee had been set for Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, but has been postponed until 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The committee is composed of Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, Miss Jessie Myse, Mrs. Albert E. Thornton, Sr., Miss Lucy Marvin Adams, Mrs. Eugene R. Atlantans Warned Against Purchase Of Foreign Bonds

Owing to the fact that the mails throughout the United States are being flooded with literature from bond houses mainly in New York offering the paper money and bonds of bankrupt European governments and municipalities, the Georgia Securities commission Monday took official action to warn the people of Georgia to be very cautious how they put their money into these speculations.

The commissioners well understood that the law gives them no control over the sale of government securities, but, as some of the commissioners as well as Chief Examiner T. B. Conner had recently been in receipt of mail offerings of this kind, they thought it to be their duty to warn the public against them. After conferring with the commission on the subject, Chief Examiner Conner issued the following statement:

Fraud is Charged.

"I do not believe that there is any worse fraud being perpetrated in this country than the effort being made, chiefly by unscrupulous New York concerns, to induce our people to buy practically worthless European government paper, either in the form of money or so-called bonds. A brief explanation of a circular which I received this morning will indicate just how crooked these offers are.

"A New York concern offered to sell me a 10,000 mark bond of the city of Warsaw, Poland, for $19.85. It was represented that when Polish money reached par, this bond would be worth $2,380 or just $119 for every dollar invested. It was further represented that with Polish money normal, the interest on this bond alone would be $119, or six times the amount of the investment.

"Now, so far from this being an honest offer or one that could for an instant attract any thinking man, it was the boldest kind of a fraud on its face. Polish marks are now quoted in the New York papers at three-one-hundreds part of a cent each, the normal exchange value being about 24 cents in American money.

Current Value $3.

"The current market value of these bonds would therefore be $3 for a 10,000-mark piece of paper instead of $19.85. The so-called New York investment concern was therefore offering those bonds to me at more than six times their present market value in New York and representing it as a bargain offer.

"But who in his right senses would believe for one minute that a paper mark now quoted at three-one-hundredths part of a cent, par value 24 cents, will ever be anything else but a worthless piece of paper? Surely Georgians in our present financial stringency will not throw away any of their good, hard-earned money.

JUNIOR CHAMBER SALES COURSE TO END TONIGHT

Joseph McCord, of the federal reserve system, will address the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce salesmanship meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the chamber's town hall on "Thrift." This meeting will close the salesmanship course.

The members who will try to win the handsome loving cup donated by Myron E. Freeman & Bros., jewelers, for the best composition of not more than 300 words on the course, will have about eight days in which to finish their papers, according to announcement Monday afternoon by J. C. Robinson, secretary, who stated that they must be turned in not later than December 5. All members who attended five of the six lectures will be given a salesmanship certificate. Approximately 75, it is said, have attended at least five of the lectures, and are entitled to one of these certificates.

FRAUD IS CHARGED IN THE TRANSFER OF $2,000 STOCK

John Owens was appointed temporary receiver by Judge John T. Pendleton in Fulton superior court Monday for $2,000 worth of stock, which had been placed in the hands of Mrs. Ruth Davis by her husband, B. The suit alleges that Davis left the state to dodge legal service. Judge Pendleton set the case for hearing December 10.

The petitioners and the amounts they allege due them are: J. B. Cheek, Comer, Ga., $80.52; S. J. Carmichael & Co., Comer, $55.05; David Brothers, Comer, $78.73; the Row Land company, Comer, $733.36; Comer Mercantile company, $9.88; Farmers' Mills, Comer, $424.87, and W. H. Stamps, Comer, $110.19.

Attorney H. W. McLarty represents the plaintiffs.

Suppose you came to Atlanta?

WITH your heart full of home-hunger and your mind fixed on the rainbow—a boy on the doorstep of his maturity, unknown, unknowing—suppose you came to Atlanta: where would you go—what would you do—how would you pass your nights?

What would it mean to have a welcome hand held out to you—an invitation to bring your tired body to a cozy room, or lose the day's weariness in a glorious plunge and then, refreshed, attend an educational class or mingle with elders who regard their life-knowledge as a stewardship for the next generation?

The Y. M. C. A. is extending just such a welcome hand—just such an invitation to the hundreds of boys who come to Atlanta to win or to lose their life-fight.

Atlanta's Y. M. C. A. work is a great work, but its FUNDS ARE NOT GREAT ENOUGH. It must raise money. $100,000 is needed to pay the mortgage on the Central Building, which has been a serious handicap since 1914 and to finish the Colored Building. It is a SMALL AMOUNT for Atlanta, but it is needed for a GREAT WORK and the need for it now is great!

The U. S. ROYAL CORD TIRE

Unquestionably the outstanding merchandising success of the year—both in the eyes of the trade and of the car-owner.

When the U. S. books close for 1921, they will show U. S. Royal Cord sales nearly doubled over 1920.

What U. S. Tires say and do commands a greater audience than any other line of tires in the world.

Where is the tire dealer headed for in 1922

ALONG about this time of the year the tire-dealer is a much called upon man.

Probably a dozen different "Agencies" for a dozen different tires are hopefully spread before him.

But when he gets off by himself and starts to think he finds out that most so-called Agency Franchises are hardly more than permission to invest his money in this brand or that brand at his own risk.

Consider now—not what is said in behalf of the U. S. Tire Sales and Service Agreement—but what it does.

Consider general conditions for the past year. And note everywhere that U. S. Tire dealers have been the least affected of all.

Observe how generally the U. S. Tire dealer is respected. Not alone by the public but by his local competitors.

The U. S. Tire dealer always knows where he is at. Right now—or in making his plans for 1922.

He can always put his hands on the U. S. consistent merchandising policy.

Where the U. S. Sales Franchise separates from the rest and asserts its prerogatives are in these things—

It brings to the dealer's store the greatest and most loyal tire-audience anywhere.

It supports the dealer with the most constructive and courageous publicly expressed policies today.

It carries the prestige of the U. S. Royal Cord Tire and the "USCO" Tread.

It is the most sought after Franchise in the whole tire trade.

U. S. dealers will be the ranking tire-merchants of 1922. Not only in profits returned, but in local reputation as business citizens.

Prices on all U. S. Tires and Tubes Reduced Nov. 10th. Ask your dealer.

SUIT FOR $50,000 AGAINST MARTINS ENDS IN MISTRIAL

The $50,000 damage suit against Al Martin, councilman, and Mrs. Martin, for alleged personal injuries sustained by Sharron Hodges, 14 years old, when he was struck by the Martins' car, went to the jury at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, and resulted in a mistrial. The case was tried before Judge H. M. Reid.

Young Hodges, son of H. A. Hodges, of Crumley street, declared that the Martin car ran over him in May, 1920, and that as the result of the accident he suffered the loss of a leg.

Hewlett and Dennis and John S. Highsmith represented Hodges, while Arnold & Arnold and Harvey Hill, represented Mr. and Mrs. Martin.

Witness in Murder Case is Planning To Rejoin Husband

After her dreams of a Thanksgiving reunion had been shattered last week when she was held as a material witness in the N. L. Post killing at the home of Mrs. T. E. Williams, Mrs. Alma Harvey, aged 20, of 60 Garnett street, is again preparing to join her husband, from whom she had been separated for some time, and begin all over again.

The young woman Monday reiterated her statement that she was a victim of circumstances on the night of the shooting, and that after she realized the kind of a party to which she had been invited by Mrs. Williams she left the residence and mede her way home. At the time of the shooting she was more than a block away from the house, she said.

Mrs. Harvey said that she became acquainted with Mrs. Williams when they were employed in a department store. Last Wednesday night Mrs. Williams invited her to spend the night with her, she said, and she consented to do so. She declared that she did not know that a drinking party had been planned.

After leaving the Williams house, she said, she heard the shots fired. At the corner of Ormond street and Capitol avenue she found two young men repairing a tire on their sedan. She requested them to take her home, she said, and they did as she asked.

The youths left her at her door without giving their names, she said, and Monday the young woman was anxious to get in touch with them. She stated that she would like for them to call her at Main 5315, as she wants them to corroborate her story.

Given Heavy Sentence.

Macon, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—What is believed to be one of the heaviest sentences ever imposed in local courts for a similar offense, was given Ezekial Jackson, negro, today, after he had pleaded guilty to burglarizing a grocery store. Judge Malcolm D. Jones, in Bibb superior court, sentenced the negro to serve from nineteen to twenty years.

THE MATING OF THE BLADES

BY ACHMED ABDULLAH

(Copyright, 1921, for The Constitution.)

Next Week, "The Fighting Fool," by Dana Coolidge. Starting Next Sunday.

A few hours later, Abderrahman Yahiah Khan and his companion, whom the Tamerlani officials at the eastern gate had passed in without question as evidently belonging to the saheb's retinue, had disappeared in the packed, greasy wilderness of city houses.

Then Mr. Warburton sent the Babu Chandra, local agent of the cable company and his own more or less trusted representative, word that he was in town and wished to see him at once, and sat and waited.

The Babu came.

"Higgins saheb is making mischief in the west. He is . . . ," said the Babu.

"That's why I'm here. I want an audience as soon as possible with that—what's his name—the fellow who seems to be ace high here . . ."

"Al Nakia?"

"Yes. I want to see him, right away. Can you fix it up?"

"Yes, Heaven-Born."

"When?"

"At once. At least—this afternoon. About two hours from now he receives in open durbar, saheb."

"Good. You'd better come along and play interpreter."

At which the Babu smiled.

"Heaven-Born," he said, "Al Nakia speaks English."

"Educated abroad, I guess?"

"No. He is a saheb, like yourself!"

Even so two hours later—Mr. Ezra Warburton was utterly surprised when ushered into the presence of Al Nakia, he discovered that the latter was Hector Wade.

And the surprise was mutual. Too, it was typical of American and Britton.

"I'll be jiggered!" exclaimed the former.

"How d'ye do?" said the latter, extending a limp and gawkish hand.

Came an embarrassed silence, until finally the financier decided that the past was the past and he was here on business.

And business he would talk, and did talk.

"About those land development concessions," he began. "I guess I can make you a pretty fair offer—an offer you won't be able to refuse."

And he talked on, outlining his plan.

But Hector was hardly listening.

"How is your daughter, Mr. Warburton?"

And, suddenly, Mr. Warburton smiled.

"The joke is on me," he said. "That infernal guide of mine told me that you were—oh—all sorts of a gay and festive dog."

Hector flared up.

"I . . . what?"

"I had no idea you were Hector Wade. I thought you were some Oriental Don Juan. That's what my guide told me."

"What did he do that for?" Hector was puzzled, faintly uneasy.

"Oh—just to work me for a tip, I suppose. I'll send for her as soon as we're through with our little talk. She'll be all right at the village, in the meantime."

"I suppose so," said Hector, still with that same faint uneasiness.

"As to those land concessions," Warburton began again, "my proposition is fair and square . . ."

Hector Wade jerked himself back into the reality of things.

"Mr. Warburton," he said, "I do not doubt it in the least. Fair and square. Of course. I have not been here very long. Perhaps a measure of development may do Tamerlanistan a whole lot of good. I don't know—yet."

"I can prove to you that . . ."

"You can prove to me nothing—about Tamerlanistan. I must learn by myself. I must pacify the border province. Nothing else counts."

"Right there I can help you."

"Oh, yes. You told me. Rifles and bullets and all that sort of thing. But I fancy I shan't need them. I have rather a difficult plan. Anyway, there'll be no talk of concessions until either I know more about Tamerlanistan than I do know, or until the former prime minister returns from abroad. He and the late Ameer had certain ideas about these concessions."

"I remember," said Mr. Warburton, with rather a grim smile.

And then, with utter, dramatic suddenness, a cry was echoed by a shrill voice.

It was the old nurse's screaming voice. "And dost thou mean to tell me that the princess—that little, little fool of a princess—went there, without telling me? Why didst thou not tell me, O daughter, of a noseless she-camel? Hurry! Hurry!" she wound up, and Hector, pale, slightly trembling, turned to the American.

"Pardon my abruptness," he said, "I have to go. . . ."

"Has anything happened? Can I help you?"

And he picked up the ancient Oriental blade from a low taboret and ran out of the audience hall and into the outer court.

Hector was off at a gallop.

"What has happened?" Mr. Warburton asked Babu Chandra, who had come into the audience hall, fully as excited as the nurse had been.

"The Princess Aziza Nurmahal fell into a trap. And so—so did . . ."

"Who?"

"Your daughter, Heaven-Born!"

And, like the nurse, he told a jerking, hysterical tale, at the end of which the financier, even as Hector had done, rushed out of the palace into the outer court, and mounted the first horse he saw.

THE PERFIDY OF MISS BROWN

A PETER RUFF STORY

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

(Copyright, 1921, for The Constitution.)

III—A BARGAIN'S A BARGAIN!

"Monsieur Ruff," said Monsieur de Founcelles, "putting aside, for one moment your sense of honor, which of course forbids you even to consider the possibility of breaking your word—supposing that the young lady herself should withdraw—"

"You don't know Miss Brown!" Peter Ruff interrupted.

"It is a pleasure to which I hope to attain," Monsieur de Founcelles declared, smoothly. "Let us consider once more my proposition. I take it for granted that, apart from this threatened complication, you find it agreeable?"

"I am deeply honored by it," Peter Ruff declared.

"Well, that being so," Monsieur de Founcelles said, more cheerfully, "we must see whether we cannot help you. Tell me, who is this fortunate young lady—this Miss Brown?"

"She is a young person of good birth and some means," Peter Ruff declared. "She is, in a small way, an actress; she has also been my secretary from the first."

Monsieur de Founcelles nodded his head thoughtfully.

"Ah!" he said. "She knows your secrets, then, I presume?"

"She does," Peter Ruff assented. "She knows a great deal!"

"A young pedson to be conciliated by all means." Monsieur de Founcelles declared. "Well, we must see. When, Monsieur Ruff, may I have the opportunity of making the acquaintance of this young lady?"

"Tomorrow morning, or rather this morning, if you will," Peter Ruff answered. "We are taking breakfast together at the Cafe de Paris. It will give me great pleasure if you will join us."

"On the contrary," Monsieur de Founcelles declared, "I must beg of you slightly to alter your plans. I will ask you and Mademoiselle to do me the honor of breakfasting at the Ritz with the Marquis de Sogrange and myself, at the same hour. We shall find there more opportunity for a short discussion."

"I am entirely at your service," Peter Ruff answered.

There were signs now of a breaking-up of the little party.

"We must all regret, dear Monsieur Ruff," Monsieur de Founcelles said, as he made his adieux, "this temporary obstruction to the consummation of our hopes. Let us pray that Mademoiselle will not be unreasonable."

"You are very kind," Peter Ruff murmured.

Peter Ruff drove through the gray dawn to his hotel, in the splendid automobile of Monsieur de Founcelles, whose homeward route lay in that direction. It was 4 o'clock when he accepted his key from a sleepy-looking clerk, and turned towards the staircase. The hotel was wrapped in semi-gloom. Sweepers and cleaners were at work. The palms had been turned out into the courtyard. Dust sheets lay over the furniture. One person only, save himself and the untidy-looking servants, was astir. From a distant corner which commanded the entrance, he saw Violet stealing away to the corridor which led to her part of the hotel. She had sat there all through the night to see him come in—to be assured of his safety! Peter Ruff stared after her disappearing figure as one might have watched a ghost.

The luncheon-party was a great success. Peter Ruff was human enough to be proud of his companion—proud of her smartness, which was indubitable even here, surrounded as they were by Frenchwomen of the best class; proud of her accent, of the admiration which she obviously excited in the two Frenchmen. His earlier enjoyment of the meal was a little clouded from the fact that he felt himself utterly outshone in the matter of general appearance. No tailor had ever suggested to him a coat so daring and yet so perfect as that which adorned the person of the Marquis de Sogrange. The deep violet of his tie was a shade unknown in Bond street—inimitable—a true education in color. They had the bearing, too, these Frenchmen! He watched Monsieur de Founcelles bending over Violet, and he was suddenly conscious of a wholly new sensation. He did not recognize—could not even classify it. He only knew that it was not altogether pleasant, and that it set the warm blood tingling through his veins.

Choice Cuts —and Others

A few months ago a newspaper man visited one of the wholesale markets of Swift & Company. He wanted to see a retailer buy a short loin of beef and then watch the retailer sell the porterhouse and sirloin steaks from it over his counter. He thought this would make a good story.

The head of the market took the reporter into the "cooler" where he showed him a high class side of beef. With a wooden skewer he marked off the short loin and said, "That is only 8 per cent of the weight of the whole side and it is selling for four times as much as thispiece(andhemarked off the "chuck," which is about one-fourth of the side of beef)."

The wide variation in the wholesale price of various cuts from the same side of beef is caused largely by demand for the so-called choicer cuts. The others are, of course, just as wholesome.

It seems as though more people than ever are demanding choicer cuts, and their demand sets the price. If few people ask for the forequarter cuts, the price of forequarters will automatically drop to a figure low enough to induce people to buy because of cheapness.

Even though certain cuts sell for relatively high prices, other cuts, due to lack of demand, sell so low that our profit from all sources over a period of five years averaged only a fraction of a cent a pound.

It is competition between consumers for the choice cuts that keeps prices for those cuts relatively high; an equalizing demand for all parts of the carcass would benefit producer, packer, retailer and consumer.

Our average wholesale selling price of all products has fallen about 40 per cent since September 1920.

IN A SAD DILEMMA.

Between the forces within his party demanding fulfillment of his campaign promise with reference to world-wide permanent peace through international co-operation, and the irreconcilable element that stands out against any semblance of indorsement of the league of nations idea, the republican administration appears to be in a perplexing dilemma.

With the disarmament conference in session, and apparently getting nowhere in particular, the president has "let it be known," acording to the press dispatches, that he would like to see an "association" of nations formed, with the United States a charter member of it; and that he would like the present conference to initiate a movement to that end.

Now comes Borah, the real instigator of the conference, with a flat and determined repudiation of the "association" idea, based upon the theory that it is too much like the league of nations idea; and he reminds the president of his campaign promises to have nothing whatsoever to do with the league of nations or with any foreign alliance even remotely resembling it!

The pro-league republicans accepted candidate Harding's campaign advocacy of an "association" as a camouflaged indorsement of the principle of the League to Enforce Peace—now the league of nations—and they assured the voters of the country that the election of Harding meant American membership in such a league. And on the strength of such assurances tens of thousands of pro-league voters deserted Wilson on the theory that the Wilson ends could be made effective more certainly and at an earlier date by a republican than by a democratic administration.

They do not favor merely an "association" of nations that would be without power to enforce peace. Such an institution, they correctly maintain, would really amount to nothing more effective than an international sewing circle, which would have power only to meet at stated intervals, sip tea, talk international fellowship and pass resolutions on how sweet it is for nations to keep out of war.

They want a league of nations—a league with "teeth," capable of enforcing disarmament and world-wide peace!

The anti-league zealots, headed by Borah, now that the president has been forced to take a stand for some sort of an international peace alliance, take the position that an "association" of nations such as Harding has in mind, would be simply another name for the league of nations, and that if we are going into such an "entangling alliance" it would be better to come out openly, be consistent and join the present league. Therefore, they are as "unalterably opposed" to the proposed "association" as to the actual league of nations!

Borah, one of the bell-wethers of the "bitter-ender" forces, has been the first to attack the Harding international "pink tea" suggestion.

Next, we may expect a similar assault by Reed; with Johnson, La Follette, and all the others, in turn, following suit.

The administration is plainly in the midst of a delicate situation—a situation within its own party aptly described by the expression "You'll be damned if you do, and you'll be damned if you don't!"

Its process of extrication will be watched with interest, not only by the United States, but by the world.

AGAIN FROM THE ASHES.

Once again Augusta has been hard hit by disaster, suffering a fire loss of approximately $1,500,000, but, as upon previous occasions, the courage and dauntless spirit of its people is manifest, and even before the flames died out plans for rebuilding were under way.

Several times Augusta has been stricken by the elements, both fire and flood, but in each instance the splendid spirit of fortitude and civic pride on the part of its business men and citizens generally rose to the emergency and converted disaster into gain.

Upon this occasion, as upon each similar occasion in the past, the heart of the state has gone out to Augusta in a sense of sympathy over-topped with admiration.

The Augusta Chronicle is one of the chief sufferers of the fire of last week.

That newspaper enjoys the unique distinction of having served the people of Augusta and Georgia for 135 years without ever having missed an issue.

It seems that Fate has done its worst to challenge that remarkable record, but only to fail.

In the conflagration that devastated a large part of Augusta a few years ago the plant of The Chronicle was in the center of the fire-swept area, and was completely obliterated.

The Chronicle, however, appearing the next morning as usual, from the plant of its generous and equally public-spirited contemporary, The Herald, later providing itself with new quarters and new equipment.

In the big fire of a few nights ago The Chronicle was again in the path of the flames, and not as much as a lead pencil was left to tell the story of its destruction

But again its neighbor and competitor "took it in" as before, and The Chronicle was 'on the streets the next morning as though nothing had happened.

Already its enterprising and courageous publisher, T. J. Hamilton, is having plans prepared for a new home for his paper, and is negotiating for an entirely new outfit of equipment, and within a few weeks The Chronicle will be housed in a bigger and better home than the one that was destroyed.

Such spirit and courage as this commands attention.

Surely, with this last futile effort at discouragement, Fate should be satisfied to keep hands off The Chronicle—a newspaper with a spirit that will not down, and with a history that is largely that of the state itself.

The initial event of the series of Agnes Scott lectures will be an address on "The Comic and Grotesque in Ancient Literature and Art," by Dr. David M. Robinson, professor of archaeology and Greek literature, Johns Hopkins university, to be delivered in the chapel of Agnes Scott college next Wednesday evening.

On the following morning Dr. Robinson will speak from the same platform, on "Sappho, the World's Greatest Love Poet and Her Influence on Later Literature." Succeeding these, other lectures will be delivered from time to time during the course of the series, by Dr. Erskine, of Columbia, whose subject will be the poet, Dante; Dr. Edward Divine, Miss Amy Lowell and other men and women of prominence in American literary life.

This is to be the second annual series of public lectures at Agnes Scott staged under the direction of the Agnes Scott College Lecture association.

As expressed by a member of the faculty, explaining the underlying purpose of the movement, "Agnes Scott college is trying to bring something to the community-at-large in Decatur and Atlanta—as well as to the student body; and so this public lecture association was organized to bring the college men and women distinguished in their respective fields of work and thought."

Only a nominal admittance fee is charged, the desire being not to make the lectures profitable in a financial way, but to serve the public and the school by bringing the two closer together in thought and spirit, by promoting an appreciation of the finer things in life, and by developing a cultural atmosphere in the community, of which all—students and masses—may partake to their own and their community's edification.

Last year the lecture course was highly successful from every standpoint.

This year, it should be more so.

Pictures of Russian aristocrats working on the streets, but they are doubtless grateful that they have at least been given a chance to take the air.

The colleges are giving Marshal Foch so many degrees, they'll probably have excess baggage claims on him going home.

A Choice of Seasons

I.

I'm not so much on summer, when the lilies wilt away,
And the rose in windless gardens is a pallid ghost of May;
When the very woods are breathless, and the valleys and the plains,
As they glisten seem to listen for the tinkle of the rains.

II.

I'm not so much on summer, though the rivers as they run,
With winsome, windy ripples, seem to catch and cool the sun,
And toss their shiny dewdrops where the green banks droop and dream,
And tempt the thirsty thrushes where the scarlet berries gleam.

III.

But give me snow-clad winter—when the wind is in the pines,
And the golden groves still sweetened by the passing muscadines!
And the red fox leaves his cover, and the winding of the horn,
Like a love song to a lover, makes the melodies of morn.

"With You Away."

Mr. George A. Kennedy is vice president of the First National Bank of San Francisco, and we are glad to greet him as a "banker-poet." During a recent southern visit, he contributed several folk-songs to this column, and he sends us this, in remembrance of that visit, entitled, "With You Away":—

"Dis mo'nin' when you went away
You didn't understan'
Why it was I couldn't say
Goodbye, jes' hol' you' han'
An' look in you' eyes, so tender, true,
Yo' lips to mine, a-pressin',
So I'se 'splainin' dis to you,
My love to you confessin'.

De violets wuz very blue
As I came fru de meddah,
I nevah hyeah a love dove coo,
No mattah if de weddah
Is bright and sunny all de day,
D'ain't no use denyin'
I'se mighty glum wif you away,
My haht cain't keep from sighin'.

De mockin'bird ain't sung a note,
I'se listened all de day,
Mus' be a lump in his little froat,
Like mine—'cause yo'se away,
So I stan' by de open do'
And dream of de days to be:
Dere nevah can be joy no mo'
Till you come back to me."

The Blessing of the Books.

The autumn books, the autumn books, with all their bright and breezy looks; the gold within and on their covers for poetry and story-lovers; friends, new and old, forevermore with "welcome" at the humblest door; guests of gray Winter's inglenooks, thanks for the blessing of the books!

Cotton by-products—
Silk, linen, lisle,
Velvet, et cetera."

Corn and Hay as Substitute for Cotton Seed for Cattle

Editor Constitution: I note in The Constitution that Georgia has a bountiful corn crop.

Will you please give me some information, statistically, as to ow much corn and hay will have to be fed to live stock to produce the same amount of fats caused by the shortage in the cotton seed crop?

H. W. WALKER, SR.
Griffin, Ga., Nov. 20, 1921.

The above inquiry was submitted to President A. M. Soule, of the State College of Agriculture, who replies as follows:

"Presuming that we secure two pounds of cotton seed for each ponds of lint, it would appear that we made last year approximately 750,000 tons of cotton seed in Georgia. This year the crop will likely be around 400,000 tons. At least, this is the result which the figures in hand at the present time would indicate. This represents a difference of 350,000 tons of cotton seed between the two crops. Presuming that we secure 1,000 pounds of meal per ton and that all of the 350,000 tons in question was crushed, we would have the equivalent of 175,000 tons of meal to make good from an increase in our corn yield of between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 bushels over the previous year.

"In feeding experiments made on a rather extensive scale it has been shown that a pound of cotton seed meal is equal in feeding value to about 1.75 pounds of corn. This would give our 175,000 tons of cotton seed meal a feeding value equivalent to 306,250 tons, or about 10,500,000 to 11,000,000 bushels of corn. Our present corn crop, therefore, will more than offset the loss in feeding units throughout the state, due to the shrinkage in the volume of our cotton seed crop for the present year.

"In this calculation I have left the hulls out of consideration. They constitute a form of roughage of fair value. It is my understanding, however, that we have a good hay crop in Georgia this year, and the very fact that we have such a large corn crop shows that we have an abundance of roughage if we gather, harvest and handle it in an acceptable manner."

The Peace Conference and Its World-Wide Importance

Editor Constitution: The Constitution has become, through its practical editorial management, a kind of national mouthpiece on subjects of national importance.

The recent world war stands before the delegates in Washington as an unsurmountable argument why this conference should be a lasting success. As a result of that war, Germany stands today a ruined nation. Russia stands out as a most pitiable picture of what war will do. As a further result, France and England and Italy are sorely crippled for decades to come.

We, the innocent bystander, are burdened with a load of taxes which will last for more than half a century to come.

With this picture before them, how can the delegates to the conference do anything else than decide upon an iron-bound policy which will make war absolutely impossible for the next 100 years at least? There should be no question about the duty of every man who holds credentials from his nation to act for peace that will be absolute and practical.

And yet there will appear and has already appeared a lobby at this conference which will aim to abrogate the results for which this conference was called. Representatives from the navies and armies of every nation represented will use their utmost efforts to stop the work these great men are trying to do. The war god is there, in full force, with his experts and will fight to the very end all efforts for world peace. If this conference is a success, the officers in the armies and navies of the world will lose their jobs. Their commissions and their pay checks are at stake. They will not let this conference succeed if there is any possible way of prevention. That will be the one great stumbling block and the one thing which must be fought to the bitter end.

England and France and Italy have even more at stake in this conference than we have. So far as they are concerned, war must stop, for they are economically unable to engage in another struggle. Those countries, furthmore, have their labor troubles now and labor demands that war must be a thing of the past. If they fail to see this handwriting on the wall they may get into another struggle which will be far more disastrous than the great German drive for world supremacy. We believe that these foreign representatives in Washington see and understand this condition just as it is.

If we are going to have a compact that will insure lasting peace, let's have it full and complete. When Armistice day was observed in this city November 11 you will recall that a large part of the crowd at Five Points was made up of men and boys in military garb. Let's get away from every semblance of war. Let's quit teaching our young boys the art of war. Take them out of khaki and put them in citizens' clothes. Do away with swords, sabers and pistols. Military training and the military spirit was the undoing of Germany. It was proven beyond a doubt in the late great war that we could prepare millions of fighting men in a few months, who made the most wonderful soldiers the world has ever seen. If the necessity ever arose we can do this again. Therefore, let us try to forget war, forget the military spirit, take military training out of our schools and bring up a generation of peace-lovers. There is now no argument in favor of teaching our young men the art of a profession which, from this time forward, must become obsolete.

It is shown by statistics that over 90 per cent of our taxes go for war purposes. The showing is almost unbelievable, and the time has come for this terrible waste to stop. The burden has reached the point where the taxpayer will bear it no longer. There was never a time in the world's history when the demand for world-peace was so great as now. There has never been a time before when the great nations were sitting in conference upon the overwhelming question of world-peace.

But to help make this conference a practical success the thunders of the press must be heard around the whole world. You must speak in no uncertain terms. The lobby which would thwart the efforts of this conference has millions of money at its command. That money will be spent with the recklessness of a prodigal. That lobby will stop at nothing in order to carry its ends. Papers like yours are the mouthpiece of the people—the great tax-burdened masses—who look to you for help in this hour fraught with such tremendous consequences.

The Constitution is doing its full duty in a crisis like this and your readers are watching with intense interest the powerful influence which you can wield on this all-absorbing topic.

If a Doughboy Could Knock Him Out, They Ought To Be Able to Finish Him

Seen and Heard in Washington

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Washington, November 28.—(Special.)—The "Frenzied Finance" that Thomas W. Lawson wrote about some years ago, pales into insignificance, as a condition among the rich and the near-rich at the time, as compared to the "Frenzied Folly" of the social climbers and would-be climbers, here now, who are making the days and nights of the arms parliament delegates miserable with their snobbery, interspersed with eats and drinks and dances, and the wild scramble for priorities and privileges and distinctions.

It is a sickening sight to the observer, and far more "sickening" to the bespangled and beribboned and betitled visitors—to see these aspirants for social favor fall upon the necks of the diplomatic lords and earls and counts and barons and what nots, and whirl them through daily and nightly programs of every conceivable kind of social functioning.

Why, they are actually getting afraid to look "little neck clams" in the face; they back away from "lobster puttis," shy at anything that sounds like "lynhaven cocketail," shut their eyes at the sight of mock turtle soup—

And are already keeping the local chapter of medical men busy trying to save their digestive organs from the barrage of "American ambition," and their livers from degeneracy produced by overburdens of fat.

And as to the ambitious mothers who want to become mothers-in-law to kingdoms and principalities, it is a crowning accomplishment in this wild, mad scramble, to have some titled celebrity spill tea on his shirt front—just so it is spilled in the private parlor of one of these social poohbahs.

Bosh! To move around in such an atmosphere is enough to give one a nervous twitching in the spine.

* * * * *

Well, the rivals for social prestige at the arms conference are not the only ones having their troubles in Washington.

The leaders of the republican party are in a quandary as to how to get General Dawes' budget before the house appropriations committee without the American voters finding out that President Harding is trying to three and a half billions of dollars for the fiscal year 1922-'23, and that without appropriations for the navy, prohibition enforcement or any of the many new welfare and uplift bureaus that President Harding is trying to create as clearing houses for a lot of political debts.

When General Dawes' budget goes in, early in December, it will show the expenses of government four times as great as the year before war on Germany was declared, not counting the interest on the war debt.

It must be recalled that the national budget law is only advisory. The chief advantage is in co-ordinating and cutting departmental estimates before they get to congress, but congress is not bound to follow them.

The fact is the republican controlled congress will play politics with the budget, slash the items with a loud cry of "economy," and then slip in a lot of deficiency bills after the congressional primaries next summer.

It is not going to be so easy to fool the people another time, however. They know. They know it is a long, long trail to "normalcy," if that trail continues to run through the preserves of the republican party.

You bet it is!

* * * * *

"Your eyes are your ears!" That is the paradoxical message that the United States veterans' bureau is sending to more than 500 men who were deafened in the world war.

It is the purpose of the bureau to demonstrate to these men that they may learn to "hear" by reading the lips of people addressing them and adapt themselves to gainful occupations despite their physical handicaps.

The bureau reports that negro patients show a special aptitude at lip-reading.

A typical example is that of Frank Solomon, of Augusta, Ga., who is now receiving vocational training in tailoring. When Solomon returned from France he was in such a dazed condition that he could neither hear, speak nor see. His speech and vision gradually returned to him, but he remained stone deaf. After completing a course in lip-reading he was able to converse so readily that when he returned to his home his wife did not discover that he was deaf for two or three days.

Readers who follow the confirmations in the senate will recall that the nomination of Major Robert G. Peck to a lieutenant colonelcy was rejected the day of adjournment, although reported favorably by the military affairs committee.

Major Peck had served with the thirty-fifth division from Kansas and Missouri, and it has been widely published that the confirmation failed because of charges brought by the senators from those two states that Peck had made "a scurrilous and scandalous report" reflecting upon the national guard.

The New York World says editorially:

"In the Peck case the senate has laid down a rule for the guidance of the army. Any officer, if hereafter making a report, must take the precaution to submit his report to the senators of the state from which his troops come and obtain in advance their approval of his official opinion, lest at some future time his nomination by the president for promotion be held up on political grounds."

This is an unjust reflection, and the reports that Major Peck was refused confirmation on account of his alleged attitude toward the national guard are in error.

The fact is, Senator Watson, of Georgia, had the confirmation blocked because statements had reached him alleging that Peck had shown inhuman cruelty in France to three boys who had been gassed and were returning from the trenches to the base hospitals, by ordering them out of the trucks in which they rode into the line of march; and they fell by the wayside from weakness and exhaustion.

If the statements as alleged are facts it is the sickening story of a martinette whose act of inhumanity is one of the most revolting yet revealed.

At any rate, the confirmation of Major Peck to a promotion has failed.

Ex-Governor Brown Thinks Foch Should Go to Savannah

Editor Constitution: If there be one city in the United States to which, above all others, sentimentally speaking, Marshal Foch ought to be taken, that city is Savannah, Ga., for it was on the soil of the present enlarged Savannah that the first French blood, by the will of the French nation, was shed on the continent of North America in behalf of the independence of the United States.

I do not forget the fact that La-Fayette was wounded at Brandywine at an earlier date; but La-Fayette was here purely of his own volition, and not by authority of his government, hence the basic fact I have above stated stands.

It seems to me that on either his coming or return trip to Atlanta Marshal Foch ought to be taken via Savannah.

Negro to Get Parole.

After all but three voters of Quitman county had signed a petition asking that Cliff Byrd, a negro, be released from the state penitentiary where he is serving a life term on a charge of murder, a parole has been granted in the case, and the negro will be given his freedom as soon as the papers are prepared in case, it was learned Monday at the state prison commission. The negro has served seven years following conviction of killing a negro named Jim Mandeville, in 1914.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

SHALL WE BRUSH OUR TEETH?

Some pretty competent dentists have mustered courage in the past few years to withhold their indorsement or approval of the practice of brushing the teeth as a part of the regular personal toilet. I am proud to take my stand with these brave men, for it does call for extraordinary moral courage for a practicing dentist to commit himself as an opponent of the toothbrush, considering the toothbrush drills in the primary schools and the 30 years or more of well-nigh universal indorsement the dentists have given the toothbrush. I confess I'm a little weak in my own position, because I am still uncertain whether it is beneficial or detrimental or just useless for young children to brush their teeth daily, or for mothers or nurses to brush the baby teeth. Of course, it stands to reason that if toothbrushing is worth while at all, it is far more essential for the baby teeth, from the cutting of the first tooth, than it is for the teeth of an adult. Any dentist or oral hygienist who purports to believe that brushing saves the teeth, yet fails to emphasize the importance of regular brushing for the primary teeth, just doesn't mean anything to me.

Granting it is necessary to brush the child's teeth daily, or even the adult's teeth occasionally, what is the best dentrifice to use? In my judgment, plain soap is the peer, if not the superior, of any other such preparation we can find. I weigh this judgment against every essential feature—detergent or cleansing value, taste, antiseptic value, freedom from harmful effect and economy. I am an unfortunate man. It does seem as though I invariably choose the unpopular side of these questions.

A recent invention of a toothbrush made of some cheap fiber which suffices for one brushing, after which the brush is thrown away, suggests a serious fault of the ordinary toothbrush, namely, bacterial contamination from the time it is first used. We have hair and nail brushes which will stand boiling; a toothbrush should be boiled before each brushing, if it is to be sanitary. As ordinarily kept the thing is an abomination. I feel safer in putting into my mouth a brush which has been pawed over on the counter in the store than I do in using a brush I have already used once or several times, even though the brush be washed with soap and water.

If your dentist advises brushing the teeth, with or without any particular dentrifice, he certainly knows best what your teeth need. But in the absence of such advice, I would suggest, for adults, brushing as rarely as possible, and then only with soap and water. Neither a toothbrush nor a silk hat is a sign of gentle breeding.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Sore Gums.

What would you suggest for gums that are sore and inclined to bleed easily?—(W. G. K.)

Answer—Twice each week paint them with a mixture of equal parts of tincture of iodine, glycerin and tincture of myrrh. Once daily brush the teeth and gums with a drop of the following solution on the moistened brush, and do not rinse this away when through brushing:

Fluid extract of ipecac.....10 drops
Fluid extract of witch hazel. 1 ounce

Table and Chair.

I have to remain seated at a table long hours daily, writing and reading. Please tell me what the most suitable height of table and chair would be, to avoid strain or fatigue. What is the most restful sitting posture? What shade or color is most soothing to the eyes?—(W. J. W.)

Answer—Top of table should be level with point of elbow as you sit in your chair. Chair seat should be level with bend of knee, so that your feet will rest on the floor and your thighs on the seat when you sit erect. The most restful sitting posture is a reasonably erect posture, with the chair back in contact with the buttocks, both feet on the floor, one in advance of the other, and both forearms on the table. The greens and buff shades of nature are most soothing to the eyes.

Castile.

Please tell me if —— Castile soap is good for the face?—(N. S.)

Answer—Personally, I should prefer ordinary toilet soaps, but the less soap on the fact, as a rule, the better.

Iron Hypodermically.

What is your opinion of hypodermic injections of iron solutions for anaemia? Or injections of iron directly into the blood?—(Mrs. S.)

Answer—I think the practice is based on a misconception of physiology, and in practice the results are not particularly encouraging.

The address was chaste and replete with beautiful imagery, pathos and eloquence. Mr. Law is quite handsome; has a highly cultivated mind, and is a graceful and eloquent orator."

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, November 28.—The passing of Louis Martin in Paris floods the memory with thoughts of gay Manhattan nights—nights of the popping cork and scarlet claw. Martin's—pronounced Mawr-tan's—was the first of the truly Parisian cafes. It opened in the shadows of Washington Arch and one sat and watched an absinthe drip, played dominoes, cubito and read La Vie Parisienne.

Martin's only "flop" was when he opened an opulent place at Broadway and Forty-second street. He issued an imperial ukase that all must come in full evening dress, even dinner clothes or, as they say in the South Bend, the tuxedo, were barred.

The public resented this, although now in the hoity-toity places the same order is enforced yet through a head-waiter's diplomacy in groveling his stimulated sorrow that all tables are reserved.

It was at old Martin's that Harry Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit dined the night of the Madison Square tragedy. Stanford White was in another part of the room. Thaw glared at him across the tables and later pistoled him to death at the garden.

The ensuing publicity Louis Martin estimated made him more than a half million. Martin had waiters whose names now blaze before their own cafes—Pierre, Louis, Alfred, Kurth, Peter and Gaston. These were men who had the gift of dignity in servitude. They stood apart and their like is seen no more.

The old Cafe Martin was at Ninth street and University place, and is now known as the Cafe Lafayette. It is still a picturesque place where diners play dominoes and cubito, but prohibition has removed the Parisian flavor. One started dinner at old Martin's with a double Martini, served in silver-frosted goblets and ended with a pony of brandy, brought blazing with dancing blue flames.

At a vaudeville theater the other week a Chinese magician was the headliner. Over the entrance in electric lights was the name "Ching Ling Foo." Irving Berlin passed by and left his laundry.

"Sally" now nears its 500th performance with never a vacant seat. Many say it will survive for four years. Tickets are now selling for next summer. I saw the first rehearsal of the play and have seen it many times since and it still retains its charm and beauty. Dainty nimble-footed Marilyn Miller, known for years as a vaudeville dancer with a set property smile, has become the toast of the town. Her career is as much like a Cinderella story as the plot of her starring vehicle. Over in London Dorothy Dickson, a cabaret dancer along Broadway, has also been catapaulted into fame in the English production of "Sally."

Winfield R. Sheehan, a star reporter on Park Row, who is now the business executive head of the Fox film organization, has started a fad among executives who work at top speed that threatens to put a crimp in the New York luncheon business. Sheehan recently installed a shower bath in his spacious offices. Instead of dashing out and gulping down a luncheon he takes a refreshing shower and is full of vim for the remainder of the day's grind. Down in Wall street plumbers are now installing shower baths in the offices of eight big financiers. No man can work on a newspaper very long without having ideas. The man without ideas simply doesn't last.

ICE CREAM MEN HERE FOR MEET

Mayor to Welcome 800 Delegates to Annual Convention at Opening Session Wednesday.

Two hundred and ninety delegates had registered here Monday night for the ninth annual convention of the Southern Association of Ice Cream Manufactures, which will open officially Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the Auditorium-Armory. It is expected that approximately 800 delegates will attend the convention. About 150 ladies are also expected to attend.

Perhaps the feature of the convention is the exhibit of ice cream machinery and devices by the Association of Ice Cream Supply Men, a national organization. The exhibit opened Monday morning in the Auditorium, 91 exhibit booths displaying their wares. Headquarters for the supply men is in the east, but nevertheless exhibitors from the south, west and middle west are on hand.

In conjunction with the convention, the annual meetings of the North Carolina and Tri-State Associations of Ice Cream Manufacturers also will be held. The conventions and exhibit make the meeting the largest of its kind yet held in the south.

A preliminary meeting of the delegates to the Southern Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers convention will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Auditorium. The convention proper will be opened Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock by Mayor Key, to whose welcome a response will be delivered by Benjamin C. Brown, of New Orleans, a member of the association's executive board. W. M. Sidebottom, of Nashville, Tenn., president, will preside.

The convention will meet at 9 o'clock Thursday morning and at the same time Friday morning, when officers for 1922 will be elected and resolutions passed. The convention will adjourn at 12 o'clock Friday.

At the opening session Wednesday morning, President Sidebottom will deliver his annual address, and will be followed by an address by the Georgia commissioner of agriculture.

The entertainment feature of the convention will be the convention dinner and ball on the roof garden of the Ansley hotel Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock. Governor Thomas W. Hardwick and President Herbert Clay, of the state senate, will be the principal guests and speakers.

A varied program of entertainment also has been arranged for the lady visitors by the local entertainment committee.

Back Home Again

JAMES WEBBER.

When the big ice cream exhibit and convention opened Monday at the Auditorium, with visitors and delegates present from nearly every state in the union, none came with more enthusiasm and satisfaction than "Jim" Webber. Although born a New Englander, Mr. Webber spent eight years of his life in Atlanta, and he was the happiest man of the many hundreds who arrived for the "show" —happy to be back in what he says is the "best city in all the broad south."

While living in Atlanta Mr. Webber helped in the construction and exhibition here of one of the first aeroplanes made in America. This machine was made by an Atlanta concern and will be remembered by many as having made its first flight from the old Atlanta speedway.

Since leaving Atlanta Mr. Webber has been associated with the Crystal Gelatine company, of Boston, one of the exhibitors at the exposition being held by the ice cream supply men at the Auditorium. When he left Atlanta he took with him as his bride one of Georgia's daughters, formerly Miss Beulah Pidcock, of the old south Georgia family of that name.

"Atlanta is growing by leaps and bounds," said Mr. Webber Monday night at the Ansley, "and everything about it looks good to me. Atlanta is the best advertised city in the country," he continued, "and is looked upon as the center of activitiy in things southern. The Advertising Men's convention, the big drug exposition and the Farm Bureau Federation convention have attracted national attention to Atlanta during the past few months, and the present gathering here of the representatives of the allied ice cream industries of the country, will certainly help to spread the city's fame throughout the land. Atlanta has a great future and she is making the world recognize that fact."

Officers of National Guard at Benning Get Commutations

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, November 28.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Authority of the war department has been given for national guard officers on duty at the Camp Benning Georgia school as students, to draw commutation of heat, light and quarters. Senator Harris was today informed that in view of the statement of the Camp Benning commanding officer that he is prepared to certify that the national guard student officers who maintain an abode for a wife, child or dependent parent, will be performing field duty while at school, commutation of quarters to such officers for such dependents will be paid.

Several Georgia officers weer affected by the first ruling, which did not allow commutation.

There is one fairly good hotel in Jericho.

Hollomon Explains Concretely That Issues of the Far East Are of Paramount Importance

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

Washington, November 28.—(Special.)—The Washington Bureau of The Constitution has had repeated requests for an explanation of the problems of the Far East, now before the international conference being held here.

In a word, they are problems that arise entirely out of the territorial rights of the empire of China, the alleged aggressiveness of Japan in overriding what China claims to be some of those rights, and the alleged aggressiveness of other nations in acquiring other "spheres of influence" in one or more of the thirteen territories that China has always conceded to belong to her great Pacific group.

Of course, there is the Shantung issue involved, aside from the old territorial squabbling, in which the whole civilized world almost sympathizes with China, believing that the award of Shantung to Japan by the treaty of Versailles was wrong, and absolutely without justification. Japan has conceded that and has promised to give Shantung back to China, and one of the outcomes of the present conference, in my judgment, will be to see that that award is made.

But the Shantung issue is but a drop in the bucket in the real category of Far Eastern territorial problems. Indeed, the issues between China and Japan—and, as I say, that are all territorial and the direct offspring of territorial squabbles—are the biggest issues before the present conference for there can be no concerted movement for any kind of resourceful land or sea disarmament, or an "association of nations"—which is but the republican party's name for a "league of nations"—until those Eastern questions are settled.

* * * *

OF SUPREME MOMENT ARE FAR EAST ISSUES.

Far Eastern problems a decade ago were listed within the category of unimportant factors of international politics and progress; today they embody the very foundation upon which the structure of the civilized world shall be built.

On their proper consideration and settlement not only lies the success of the present Washington conference, but the future progress of the world. There is no disputing that fact.

The disarmament parley, following the history of all international discussions, has resolved itself into a complex of gigantic proportions.

After accepting the straight road of Secretary Hughes' concrete proposals, dealing with the curtailment and destruction of naval armaments, the conference has reached the inevitable dilemma of two highways, one of which if properly followed leads to the restoration of the world's prewar status of constructive evolution; and the second pointing to a reverse of at least 100 years in the accepted institutions of the nations, during which disaster and international bankruptcy are sure to form component parts—a very gruesome picture, indeed, but one that a careful analysis of the Far Eastern situation will necessarily disclose.

In order to fully measure the probable consequencies arising out of the Washington conference, and to grasp the true gravity of the Pacific problem, it is necessary to bring in a historical sketch of the evolution of the Far Eastern policy to the present crisis.

In this much printer's ink has been spent, but in such an indefinite manner as to leave the general layman with notning but an abstract idea of the whole.

OLD CHINA A GROUP OF THIRTEEN TERRITORIES.

An examination of the map of China, with lines designating the territories in which foreigners claim a "sphere of influence," will tend to offer some insight as to the complexity of the situation.

Beginning with Manchuria, which forms the northern extremity of the Chinese-Siberian boundary, and ending with Burma, which borders on the Indian ocean, there are thirteen districts or territories in which foreign governments exercise a "sphere of influence." This so-called sphere of influence in many cases means complete control or suzerainty over all affairs of the Chinese people and government.

These thirteen districts and territories, which in most part embarce the entire Pacific seaboard of the Chinese empire, as it originally stood, were acquired from time to time by the occupying powers through treaties and indemnities following the numerous wars and internal disturbances of the Chinese government.

Chronologically, the first territorial acquisition dates back to 1884, at which time France annexed French Indo-China, located on the southern peninsula, as a result of the Franco-Chinese war of the same year, and ends with the seizure by the Japanese in 1914 of Shantung, which, prior to then, was a German leasehold and concession, this latter territorial acquisition being confirmed at the Paris peace conference.

Other parts of China included in the "sphere of influence" are Burma, suzerainty over which passed from China to Great Britain in 1886; Tibet, greater political-economic influence over which is now being sought by Great Britain; Yang-Tse valley, in which Great Britain claims a "sphere of influence;" Wei-Hai-Wei, a port leased by Great Britain when Germany acquired Kiao-Chau. In addition to these Japan claims interest in the following territories: Formosa, taken, with the Pescadores islands, from China by Japan after the Chino-Japanese war of 1895; Fukein province, in which Japan claims a "sphere of influence;" Corea, detached from China after the Chino-Japanese war and annexed by Japan after the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-05; Inner Mongolia, in which Japan claims special privileges, and Manchuria, in which Japan demanded the Liao-Tung peninsula after the Chinese-Japanese war, but was compelled by Russia, France and Germany to surrender it, Port Arthur subsequently going to Russia. Russia established a "sphere of influence" in Manchuria, but was ejected by Japan after the Russo-Japanese war, and Japan now exercises practically complete political and economic influence.

France also claims a "sphere of influence" in what are known as the Southern Chinese provinces, while Portugal's one possession in China is that of Macao.

In all of this, it is interesting to note the rapid territorial and political expansion of Japan.

* * * *

FOREIGN INFLUENCES VARY WITH TREATIES.

The nature of foreign influence exercised in the respective districts varies somewhat with the treaties under which rights in the territories were acquired. Foremost among these are the extra-territoriality agreement, which give to the occupying nations the right to maintain its own courts in China for the benefit and protection of its own citizens, and the imposition and levy of tariff duties on imports at all of the principal ports of China. These two rights are among the most important being objected to by the Chinese delegation. Other contingent rights of foreign nations include the privilege of military protection for citizens and property in cases of necessity.

Due to what is termed a lack of political unity in the past, it became necessary, in order to pay off debts incurred by the Chinese people through wars and loans, to assign, through treaty, the right to collect duties on imported articles to the crediting nations.

While a number of these treaties have been criticized by the Chinese people, the majority of them have been recognized as an expedient of the time; and it is said to be an all but impossible task of reopening the whole for adjustment.

As a remedy for the existing affairs, China, in brief, has asked respect for her territorial integrity, restitution of seized provinces, abandonment of special rights, monoplies, privileges and extra-territorial rights, and withdrawal of foreign troops from her soil, and permission to direct her own domestic affairs and govern her own internal and foreign policies.

Where it is necessary, China has expressed a willingness to have the program carried out over a period of years, in order that the adjustment may be gradual.

* * * *

Important concessions made to this date.

Following her demands, the most important concessions made to date include the granting of her extra-territorial requests and a readjustment of tariff duties, which according to indications will be raised from the present 5 per cent custom duties to 12 1-2 per cent.

This is considered as an important step in the direction of a united government for China, as it will enable a quicker payment of her foreign debt, ultimately releasing her port treaties, and provide present funds for the maintenance of her government expenditures.

It is also claimed by the Chinese that the famous Open Door policy, instigated by Secretary of State John Hay, in 1900, has been relegated to a policy of open doors only to the foreign trade without corresponding rights on behalf of Chinese exports and conditions.

Against the Chinese position, the Japanese, in brief, have declared a willingness to assist and help China in any way that is best for her troubles, even to the extent of abandoning concessions and exca-territoriality, but with the feeling that there is no wisdom in the latter steps and confident that other powers will oppose recessions, it is authoritively reported.

Of the 21 demands made by Japan of China at the Paris conference, she is willing to abandon the major portion of them. Since she has spent vast sums of money in Manchuria, it is claimed, she insists on maintaining her rights there. In addition to this, it is said, she wants to retain a portion of the territory bordering on Russia until she can get satisfaction from the future Russian government for Nikolayevst, but is willing to evacuate the maritime province.

With this, Japan has conceded a number of vital points, but will cling to the two points mentioned.

She has expressed a willingness to go as far in her named concessions as any other nation, which step gives indication of the only true solution of the Far Eastern outlook.

* * * *

WHY FAR EAST PROBLEM IS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

To revert back to the original theme, with some understanding of the complexity of the Far Eastern situation, it can be readily seen that the whole cannot be easily worked out to the entire satisfaction of all nations involved.

Should a break occur in the Pacific negotiations, arising over the settlement of China's demands, it is easy to understand how Japan would refuse to give up her present enlarged naval program.

With her action would come the refusal of the United States and Great Britain, and the gain made by the Hughes proposal at the beginning would resolve itself into a useless task, which would finally end in the accomplishment of naught.

Japan would continue her expansion policy in the Orient, and it is not entirely impossible that through it all the United States might incur the enmity of China, which, if united with her more aggressive neighbor, of kindred racial characteristics, might ultimately rise to her full strength and form a genuine menace to the disrupted governments of Europe and the less settled nations of the English speaking race.

And so it is that the Far Eastern problem is the most important by far with which the Washington conference is confronted.

NEW TABLET TAKES PLACE OF ASPIRIN

Pharmacist Puts Out Improved Aspirin Tablet Called Bromo-Aspirin That Retains all Aspirin Virtues, But Does Not Depress Heart or Upset Stomach.

Brings Quicker Relief Than Plain Aspirin in Colds, La-Grippe, Headaches, Neuralgia and Fever, and Much Safer.

Physicians explain that severe colds, LaGrippe, fevers, headaches, neuralgia and rheumatism are almost invariably attended by a weakness of the heart and require stimulation rather than depression. They maintain that the safety of Bromo-Aspirin should give it preference over all other remedies for headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, and especially for severe colds and La-Grippe. Many persons whose lips become pale and blue and who are depressed and made sleepy by plain aspirin find Bromo-Aspirin free from those objectionable qualities, as it is slightly stimulating instead of depressing to the heart.

The next time you find it necessary to take aspirin, try a box of Bromo-Aspirin and just see how much quicker you are relieved, how much better you feel and watch especially the absence of any of the bad after-effects you have been getting from plain aspirin. 25c buys a box of fifteen tablets at any good drug store. —(adv.)

PEACE IN IRELAND HANGS BY THREAD

London, November 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Today was one of anxious waiting in England and Ireland for the next move in the Irish peace negotiations, with hope still prevailing that after the five months' truce and the prolonged conferences over the problem some way would be found out of the present apparent impasse.

So far as appears, the next definite statement likely to reach the public will come tomorrow noon in Belfast when Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier will read in the north Ireland parliament the statement agreed upon between him and Mr. Lloyd-George, giving the cause of the failure of the negotiations between himself and the British prime minister for the establishment of an all-Ireland parliament.

According to a dispatch from Belfast this evening the statement will not touch upon what has passed between Mr. Lloyd-George and the Sinn Fein representatives, including the latter's withholding of consent to take the oath of allegiance to the crown.

Mr. Lloyd-George will return from Chequers Court tomorrow, it is said, to arrange affairs for whatever course the Irish negotiations may take and to prepare to go to Washington should conditions shape themselves favorably or the negotiators agree to a postponement of the conference which would enable him to leave England at this time.

Arthur Griffith and Robert C. Barton, of the Irish delegation were at Sinn Fein headquarters here today ready to see the prime minister should he desire a conference with them upon his return while Sir James Craig had further consultations with his cabinet in Belfast.

Mr. Griffith said this afternoon he would not issue a statement at present. He maintained the Sinn Fein view that the dail eireann has nothing to do with the conferences between the cabinet and Ulster. A report from Dublin, however, said it was possible that Eamon de Valera might have something to say.

The belief of the dail eireann representatives here they indicated today, is that after Ulster has given her reasons for rejecting the all-Ireland parliament plan, the government will continue its negotiations with the dail delegation, notwithstanding there has thus far been a failure to agree regarding the oath to be taken should a settlement on the plan reached.

Witness Declares He Was Threatened To Leave Home

Rome, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—His home was fired upon and he was ordered to leave the community with a threat that he would be "swung to a tree" if he returned, according to Earl Babb, federal court witness who revealed the location of several moonshine stills and implicated several men in the operation of them in an alleged confession.

B. F. Alexander, on whose farm Babb worked, has been arrested as a result of the alleged confession, and two stills have been destroyed.

Babb is under bond on a moonshining charge to which he pleaded that he was only a "hired man." He sent a truck after his household goods and is now residing in the city as a result of the threats, it was stated by officers. It is likely that an investigation will be made by federal authorities as a result of the alleged attempt to intimidate a witness.

Only One-Fifth Of Women Police Respond to Call

New York, November 28.—The clarion call to duty today sounded for the first time in the ears of New York's 2,500 women traffic police—called out, official orders said, to replace male regulars assigned to protect milk wagons during the milk handlers' strike.

But the day dawned cold and sodden with rain. Nearly 80 per cent of the women cops reflected and failed to turn out in the rain.

Throughout the day pedestrians failed to find the turnout of "blue petticoats" quite up to expectations. A poll completed tonight revealed that 562 had reported and been assigned to busy corners near public schools.

"But we are deluged with phone calls from women who want to become traffic police," reported Sergeant George M. Renselaer, in charge of headquarters. Applications would be accepted.

STINSON SPEAKS AT A. M. E. MEET

Statesboro, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—Richard D. Stinson, of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute, in speaking to the Savannah conference here Saturday, said:

"Our race is slow to see and take hold of the safest and best training for the negro boy and girl. Ninety per cent of us should know how to do things with our hands and we can not hope to lay the proper foundation in things of morals and better ourselves in economic conditions until we are fixed in those things which stand for the most intelligent citizenship.

"The larger number of unemployed not only in congested cities, but in small towns and almost everywhere, are in that condition because many of us are foolishly proud.

"The country is beginning to believe the negro is a more helpful citizen when he is properly trained than when left ignorant. The Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute is striving to solve this condition by training the youth as they should be."

"CLEAN-UP" DRIVE TO START IN ROME

Rome, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—Ex-service men who are entitled to compensation, hospitalization, dental treatment or other benefits from the government, are requested to report at Rome from Floyd and nine surrounding counties during the ten days beginning December 6, when a "clean-up" squad of the veterans' bureau will be on duty here. Expenses while here and transportation home will be paid by the government for ex-service men whose claims are considered worthy of investigation. Quick action in the settlement of all claims, both new and old, is promised by the squad.

Sandersville Women Sent to State Board For Anti-Malaria Aid

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN.
Constitution Bureau
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, November 28.—(By Constitution Leased Wire).—The surgeon-general of the public health service has advised the Woman's club of Sandersville, Ga., which wants to carry on an anti-malaria campaign in Sandersville and Washington county, to handle the matter through the Georgia State Board of Health and that co-operation would be given by the federal service. The woman's club requested Senator Harris, of Georgia, to take up the matter of federal assistance in an anti-malaria campaign, which he has done with the result that the surgeon-general advises the senator: "The public health service is always glad to render any practicable assistance in public health matters, but such assistance is given only upon the request of the state health authorities. Therefore, it is suggested that if the club desires the service to co-operate in the anti-malaria work, the club should communciate wtih the Georgia commissioner of health for the purpose of securing his endorsement of the matter."

In the last congress Senator Harris offered a bill appropriating several million dollars for the federal government to give as state aid in fights on malaria.

AUGUSTA CLEARING AWAY FIRE RUINS

Augusta, Ga., November 28.—Augusta went to work grimly today to clear away the fire ruins that are spread over the sidewalk and part of the street on half of the 700 block of Broad and the entire 200 block of Jackson street. The city's busiest corner is partially buried beneath debris.

The estimate of property owners of a total loss in Saturday morning's fire of $1,831,000 is regarded by insurance and business men as slightly exaggerated. The conservative estimate of the loss is $1,500,000, although Chief Fireman Reynolds does not believe the damage will exceed $1,000,000.

Drama League To Have Play.

The Drama league will meet this afternoon at Egleston hall at 3:15 o'clock. Mrs. John King Ottley will speak on Gilbert Cannan, the brilliant young English novelist. Following this, the league will present Mr. Cannan's little sketch, "Everybody's Husband," under the direction of the president, Mrs. Emma Garrett Boyd.

"Everybody's Husband" is an exquisite little bit of literature, dealing with the eternal and commonplace husband underneath even the most idealized lover. It will be presented with lights and costumes, though with the simplest setting, and the parts will be taken by Mrs. John Morris, Jr., who plays the little bride-to-be with rare loveliness and sympathy; Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, who plays the dead mother; Mrs. Curtis Arnall North, who does the spicy old grandmother, and Mrs. Jarnagin, who plays the wholly charming if naughty great-grandmother. Harry Pomar, a recent comer from Jacksonville, does the masked dream lover.

Members of the league are urged to be on time, as the performance will begin promptly and end early, owing to the fact that the Woman's club has a variety show in the hall this evening.

Membership in the Drama league is open to the public on payment of $2, an election is necessary. Non-members may attend any meeting upon payment of 50 cents.

The league is conducted wholly in the interests of better literature and better drama.

Emory Song Birds And Funmakers Touring Georgia

BY GEORGE MACDONELL.

Thirty-two college boys, out for a lark, and not one that hasn't left all recollection of musty, dusty books behind, in the opportunity to spring a few songs and skits on the ever-willing public—that's the Emory Glee club.

The club is now on a tour of points in south Georgia and Florida, four in each state, beginning with Valdosta, where a performance was staged Monday night. For the first time Emory has launched her crew of songsters into the southern part of the state and Florida.

Under the direction of Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, director of the club, and a musician of note, the men who compose the glee club have prepared a high-class musical program, interspersed with humor, which is as liable to please the most fun-loving member of the audience as well as the most musically inclined.

Emory boasts two voices outstanding among those that go to make up southern glee clubs, J. Foster Barnes, president of the club, has won considerable popularity in the cities in which the club has performed through his rich baritone, and Byron Warner is equally noted for his remarkably sweet tenor.

The itinerary of the club is: Valdosta, Ga., November 28; Waycross, Ga., November 29; Brunswick, Ga., November 30; Jacksonville, Fla., December 1; Orlando, Fla., December 2; Tampa, Fla., December 3; Tallahassee, Fla., December 4; Albany, Ga., December 6.

The officers of the club are: J. Foster Barnes, president; Elbert Peabody, vice president; J. M. Thompson, secretary; Don Cooke, manager; James Dombrowsky and Sumpter Kelly, assistant managers; Raymond Nixon, publicity director, and Dr. M. H. Dewey, director.

MAYOR WILL PASS ON PENSION PLAN FOR 15 OFFICERS

Recommendatinos of the police board that fifteen members of the force be retired on pensions, will be considered by Mayor Key at an early adte, according to an announcement made b yhim Monday. Recently a controversy developed between the pensions committee of council and the board of police commissioners, when the board made the recommendations at their last meeting.

Mayor Key said Monday that he was opposed to retiring a man who was able to continue to work, because of the inadequacy of the pension provided for in the city charter, which cannot exceed $50 a month. Charges by members of the committee that the action of the board was a political move to get rid of men so as to provide jobs for others, was denied by Commissioner John S. McClelland.

WARMER WEATHER EXPECTED TUESDAY

Monday morning dawned gray and cool—42 degrees—a much lower degree of temperature than the evening before. C. F. von Herrmann, weather man says the temperature will be about the same this morning as on Monday, and that very likely warmer weather will come before the close of the day.

HOW TO REVIVE THE ORIGINAL LUSTROUS TEXTURE OF THE COMPLEXION

EVERY woman owes it to herself to look her best at all times, and there is nothing more beautiful than a clean, clear, well-cared-for complexion, but to have this, the skin requires constant care and attention.

All day long dust and dirt are grinding and lodging into the pores of the skin, blackheads are accumulating, wrinkles developing and wind or sun roughening and reddening, and in the proper treatment of the skin, one must necessarily follow two well established rules.

First: the skin, to be kept clear, fresh and healthy and free from wrinkles, must have a frequent application, by a brisk massage, of a good, pure cold cream with oil base. This is done at night, before retiring. Second: before applying powder, in order to produce a soft, smooth, velvety effect, the skin must have an application of greaseless (vanishing) cream that will keep it from becoming red, rough or shiny.

The most perfect and complete combination for this beauty treatment will be found in Isis Perfect Cold Cream for No. 1 and Isis Vanishing (Peroxide) Cream for No. 2. There is no complexion that cannot be improved by the proper use of these two creams, and if you would know what it is to have a most exquisite complexion, get a jar of each. Isis Cold and Isis Vanishing (Peroxide) Cream, and begin tonight. Isis Creams are fully warranted, you will find them delightful to use and your dealer can supply you. The price is 35 cents.—(adv.)

Salado, Texas.—"I suffered a great deal with womanly troubles," says Miss Ira Lillian Hart, of Route 1, this place. "I would for a day or two feel drowsy, stupid and lifeless; didn't feel like doing my work.

"I would suffer pains in my sides and back, and have very severe headac . . .

"I am the housekeeper, and it was very hard for me to stop, but I would get in such a misery I would have to go to bed.

"I heard of Cardui, and that it was good for this suffering.

"The very first bottle I took seemed to help me. I did not suffer near so much, so I sent for the second.

"It did so much good for me I can't say enough for Cardui, for it certainly was a friend in need. I have recommended it to others, and gladly do so.

"'I do not dread . . . time as I used to."

Women who feel the need of something to help relieve, or prevent, such troubles as Miss Hart mentions above, should profit by the experience of thousands of other women, who have taken Cardui, with results which cause them to praise this purely vegetable, mild, harmless, tonic for women.

Necessity of Enforcing Laws Stressed by Woman Orator

Taking as her subject the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment, Mrs. Mary Harris Armor made an interesting and forceful talk to the members of the Atlanta Woman's club yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting. The speaker has been a leader in all movements pertaining to prohibition for years and has spoken on this subject in every state in the United States, as well as in several European countries.

Her appeal Monday afternoon was to women as citizens to uphold the law in its various phases, and to be the pacemakers for the next generation by setting a standard of total abstinence.

"We are today real citizens," said Mrs. Armor. "We stand amid the perplexities of a changing world face to face with a stupendous task. There has never been a time when we needed to stand by the enforcement of all laws as we do today, because lawlessness is the world's menace at the present time.

"We are confronted on all sides with danger resulting from the breaking of the law, and there is only one thing that will ever protect mankind —the respect for the dignity and majesty of the law—and when men lose that they lose everything."

Plea for the Blind.

Paul Donehoo, the blind coroner of Fulton county, outlined the plans and purposes of the Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind, of which he is a member. This organization is not composed entirely of blind people, but of others interested in helping the blind.

Mr. Donehoo stated that this organization was appealing especially to the federated clubwomen of Georgia, with the hope of influencing them in creating the proper attitude toward blind persons. "The blind do not wish to ask for charity," said Mr. Donehoo; "we wish for the opportunity to demonstrate our ability in earning our living. One of the duties which society owes to every person who is willing to work is the opportunity to work. That is what we are asking."

Mrs. H. H. McCall made a short talk regarding the Shepherd-Towner bill which provides funds to carry on educational work with mothers. Mrs. McCall explained that Miss Belle Baylis of Kingston, Ga., prominent Georgia clubwoman, was the first person to write an article regarding the introduction of this bill.

Letters were read by Mrs. Bun Wylie, recording secretary, from Senator W. J. Harris, Senator Thomas Watson, and Congressman William D. Upshaw, regarding the introduction of a bill granting full citizenship to the Indian race. The president, Mrs. Boykin, urged the club members to write to these Georgia representatives, urging the passage of such a bill.

Children's Movies.

Beginning Friday, December 9, the Woman's club will inaugurate a series of motion pictures for children to be given at the Auditorium. Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, chairman of this work, announced the plan for the sale of the tickets and asked for volunteers to help. About fifty women responded.

Other announcements made by Mrs. Bun Wylie included the children's party to be given Saturday, December 3, under the direction of Miss Evelyn Stephens. This party will be given by the public welfare department and children of the club members and their friends are invited. The admission will be 25 cents and the sum collected goes toward the keep of a little baby for which the public welfare department is now providing.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson announced that the Woman's club cook book was now for sale and urged its purchase as ideal Christmas gifts. The names of 100 members who will act as a committee to sell the cook books were read.

Mrs. James T. Daniel, a new club member, and prominent musician, sang, "One Fine Day" from "Madam Butterfly," and "The Years at the Spring." Mrs. Charles Chalmers played the accompaniment.

Kentucky Judge Is Under Arrest In Liquor Case

Louisville, Ky., November 28.—Judge Thad Cheatham, county judge of Spencer county, Kentucky, is a federal prisoner in jail here tonight, following his arrest at Taylorsville, Ky., today. He was arrested in connection with the disappearance from the courthouse of 250 cases of whisky which the judge had a short time before caused to be seized from alleged rum runners.

The judge's brother and seven other men are under arrest, in connection with the disappearance of the whisky.

Judge Cheatham vigorously protests his innocence, declaring the arrest is "spite work" on the part of the federal agents.

LENA CLARKE TELLS STORY OF HER LIFE

of this year, she said. When postal inspectors waxed warm in their investigation she came to Orlando, accompanied by Patterson, in search of Miltimore, she further explained. But as to the killing of the man, she suffered a lapse of memory. Her testimony exonerated Patterson as to having any part in the actual slaying.

Repeats Statement.

Miss Clarke, who occupied the stand for more than two hours, told the same story she had recited in a signed statement shortly after Miltimore's body was found in her room at a local hotel. She mentioned Joseph B. Elwell, murdered New York sportsman, as having loaned her $38,000 in 1918, because of his friendship for her brother. To repay him she was forced to start on a career of doctoring postal accounts, she asserted. Her mention of Elwell's name shortly after her arrest caused a flurry in police circles because of the fact that Elwell's slayers have never been arrested. It was quickly established, however, that the woman had not been north of Atlanta, Ga., since a young girl.

Her testimony in regard to the theft of $38,000 from the postoffice disagrees with that of Postal Inspector W. B. Brandon, who told the jury Saturday of his investigation into the postoffice irregularities. These irregularities, the inspector said, began before she assumed charge as postmistress, but there was never a shortage of $38,000. The shortages, he said, exclusive of the $32,000, totalled approximately $5,000.

Mind Was Blanked.

As Miss Clarke neared the end of her recital of events during her interview with Miltimore in her room, she took a flight into matters of spiritualism. She remembered giving the man a drug, she testified, but from then on her mind was a blank until she met Patterson in the hotel corridor and together they went to the office of Chief of Police Vestal.

State's witnesses have testified that no traces of a drug were found when an examination of Miltimore's vizcera was made. The state allowed the girl full rein and only once interrupted her sensational story which covered a period of nearly ten years, graphically recited in two hours during which the audience awaited every word from the witness. With a crystal always before her, the red haired, gingham clad, former postmistress recounted a weird story. When she said that her "aunt Sarah" had taught her to read and write before she was born, the state entered an objection but immediately withdrew it.

Morning Unpropitious.

Miss Clarke, in telling of her interview with Miltimore preceding his death, said he admitted taking the $38,000 in 1918, although when she had previously accused him he ridiculed her. She tried to get him to sign a confession, she said, but he refused.

Miss Clarke objected to taking the stand in the morning, "because it would be unpropitous for her to talk before 12 o'clock, because the constellation Herschel was passing through Neptune," which she considered a bad omen.

She called the jury's attention to the fact that she was wearing the dress she wore the night of Miltimore's death, and pointed out there were no blood stains on it or her handkerchief. She said she could not remember having made a confession to Chief of Police Vestel that she killed Miltimore. She explained the loss of a belt strap by saying it was torn from her in a tussle with Miltimore. He tried to escape, she said, but she pushed him into a chair.

Elwell when he loaned her the $38,000 had remarked it was a very small matter with him, she testified, but later he called upon her to repay it.

POLICEMEN BATTLE STRIKERS IN N. O.

None of the injured cases reported will prove fatal, hospital authorities say.

The number of arrests still was being tabulated late tonight. Many men were sent to outlying precinct stations, while scores of others were wrested from the police by their friends.

Thousands witnessed the battle, which started just at the time the streets were thronged with home-going crowds.

Tonight heavy forces of labor guards are augmenting the police on river front duty, and large reserves are being held at the more central precinct stations.

G. O. P. WORRIED OVER HARDING PLAN

ciation of nations as the inevitable outcome of the present international conference, and as the only possibility for any kind of a tangible agreement between nations that may ultimately become effective and for which the American people as a whole have hoped and prayed for.

Thoughtful observers of the big conference suggest that an agreement upon naval limitation, when reached, will be notable proof of the efficacy of the conference and assurance that no object within the purview of the conference need be regarded as unattainable.

The naval limitation proposal was not without attendant difficulties, as evidenced in Japan's demand for enlargement and in Britain's protest against submarines, but they will be ironed out.

Labor Angle.

In Japan's case home conditions, political and economic, made necessary, it is explained, her counter proposition. One of the domestic problems was how to deal with the workingmen who would be thrown out of employment by cutting down shipbuilding. It is noted that this situation did not seem to be so acute in regard to American industry.

Judge Gary, an authority on steel, contended that in the long run industry in this country would fare better on an assured peace basis than under the stimulus of threatened war excitement all the time. In Massachusetts one shipbulding town which would be locally affected, announced willingness to make the sacrifice for the greater object in view.

Japan's final, or, it may be, next, suggestion upon the naval limitation plan has not been disclosed to the public. In all official quarters today there was a feeling of confidence that it would be of a character promising fruition of the American plan and lead to a definite agreement.

Interst in Europe.

There was considerable comment in Washington upon the "hair-trigger" state of feeling in Italy, disclosed by outbreaks in several cities following publication of alleged remarks by Premier Briand upon Italy's army, which have been denied in French quarters. One inference drawn from the sudden flare-up in Italy is that public attention in Europe is focused upon the Washington conference as fixedly as it is here, and that nothing is likely to go unnoticed.

There is said to be this difference between the interest maintained by the public of European nations and the populace here: that in Europe there is more concern over details of the outcome of the conference which may affect international politics, while here the people are looking for broad success in the accomplishment of the main object of the meeting.

Getting back to President Harding's suggestion for an "association of nations," The New York Times today says editorially:

Merger Possible.

"That this in turn may have some kind of relation with the existing league of nations, is rather implied than expressed. Possibly an agreed merger of the two is in mind. The league certainly has one asset which any conceivable association of nations would wish to take over. This is the international court, long urged by American authorities, and at last founded, in and through the league, chiefly by American influence. As the United States is the land of combinations, it may be that the administration contemplates working out some such union of interests. The expectation of some is that the president will make his approaches in so gracious a manner that the officers of the league will be ready to exclaim with the poet, 'At a touch we combine.'

"Whatever may be done in the immediate future, one great step has already been taken. This is the full recognition of the fact that American policies and interests are wrapped up with those of Europe and Asia.

"In the present condition of the world, no nation—especially no nation like the United States—liveth unto itself. If it were to attempt to do so, the sure result would be that it would die unto itself. To this doctrine, President Harding's administration is now as fully committed as was ever President Wilson's. The hard facts have proved stronger than theories or prejudices. Action after action taken by the Washington government now in power shows that the old proud talk of America for the Americans and of splendid isolation is being dropped."

which was followed by the banquet, served by the ladies' auxiliary. During the program which succeeded, J. R. Regnas, general chairman of the campaign, presided. His words of welcome carried an appreciation for the interest the workers had taken by their enlisting for the canvass, and his certainty that they would stop of nothing short of complete victory.

He called upon Thomas Johnson, secretary of the State Y. M. C. A., who brought greetings from the various association fields of Georgia, and who declared that the eyes of all were upon Atlanta this week.

"Atlanta's ladership and her example are inspirations to every city in the state," he said. "And there is not one but what looks for her to put this campaign over. Success here will strengthen the association work all over the state and will establish here the very strongest association spirit."

Newsboy Speaks.

Little Billy King, a newsboy, who is a member of the Boys' club, was called upon to tell what the association meant in the life of the underprivileged boy, and what he had to say provoked a thunder of applause. Billy is so small that he had to stand upon a table to be seen, but his voice, strengthened by the daily shouting of his papers, carried to every corner.

"All us boys enjoy the Y. M. C. A.," he said, "and it means a lot more to us than it does to you men. But you men want us to become men as good and as strong as you are, so free our Y from debt. Give it to us now—able to develop us—and then we'll promise to pass it on, just as fine to the boys who follow us."

Billy's speech reached down into the hearts of the workers, and a motion by Kendall Weisiger that he be adopted as official mascot was adopted with a shout.

Initiated by Grady.

Honored among the speakers was Captain J. W. English, whose handiwork is evident is much of Atlanta's civic advance. All present rose to their feet when he was introduced. Captain English carried the gathering back 35 years when the campaign for the first Y. M. C. A. building, initiated by Henry Grady, was organized. He told how the meetings were held in his home, and spoke of the difficulties that were in the way. His was a glowing tribute to the strength of purpose and the persistency of the men who were associated with him in that enterprise.

"You speak of hard times now," said Captain English. "Why, people of today do not know what hard times are. They have no conception of real business paralysis. Every ailment of today can be cured when people get back to the habit of working. This $100,000 you seek is here in Atlanta, and you men can get it. I'll tell you where it is—it is in the hearts of men. Touch their hearts with the plea for the boy, our future leader, and they will respond. Do it for the boys, that's why they will do it. This campaign cannot fail."

George Winship, speaking for the board of directors, outlined the needs for the fund, going into the details of proposed expenditures, and pointed out that the association had sought practically no money from local citizens since the present building fund drive seven years ago. He expressed it as his belief that failure was impossible because of the high caliber of the organization, and because of Atlanta people's readiness to respond to appeals which were made for civic uplife.

Tribute to Colbert.

J. K. Orr is explaining why the campaign was being put on at this time paid high tribute to the work of P. M. Corbert, general secretary, who during the period of his incumbency has "done a fine piece of work, in spite of the fact that he has been saddled with an impossible financial handicap."

Other speakers who warmly indorsed the campaign were Dr. David Marx, who told of his tremendous interest in the association program because of the results it sought. The ovation given Dr. Marx was prolonged.

After C. A. Tevebaugh, campaign director, outlined the rules which would govern the solicitation, the workers were turned loose on the prospect cards which lined the walls. While general canvassing will begin Tuesday morning, the only report to be made at the noon's luncheon will be of workers' gifts. Wednesday's luncheon will reveal the response of the first solicitation.

CONFERENCE ACTS TO LIFT FOREIGN YOKE

real issues of these two problems will be put over for discussion when the conference takes up, in the very near future, the specific subject of railway leases.

Along with the foreign troop question, which for the present does not deal with forces like the legation guards at Pekin authorized by treaty, the Chinese will ask for a consideration of the status of certain foreign telegraph and wireless systems which they declare exist in China without her consent. The general subject is expected after a round table discussion to go to a subcommittee.

Japs Want Safety.

In Japanese quarters it was said tonight that the Tokio government was ready to withdraw its troops from the areas not covered by treaty stipulations as soon as China could insure the safety of Japanese nationals and property within those zones. Since the Japanese forces are more widely affected than those of any other nation by the Chinese request, the attitude of the Japanese delegates was taken as forecasting at least a declaration of principle favorbale to withdrawal.

Although the foreign governments are to have a year of grace in which to prepare for withdrawal of their postal systems from China, one feature of the agreement is expected to become effective as soon as the conference confirms formally the sanction voted by the delegates today in committee of the whole. This section refers to the introduction of contraband into Chinese territory through the foreign mails, and gives Chinese customs authorities the right to search mail matter they may suspect.

Charge Opium Smuggling.

No explanation of the search clause was contained in the official announcement of the agreement, but it was understood to have been inserted after the Chinese had charged that large quantities of opium were being carried through China in the foreign post in contravention of the anti-opium law.

The retention of the present French co-director, M. Picard-Destelan, it was said, was stipulated solely in the interest of efficient operation of the Chinese postal system and so that China could have the benefit of foreign experience and advice without foreign domination.

The declaration to be presented tomorrow on extra territoriality was drafted today by a subcommittee headed by Senator Lodge, of the American delegation, and provides for the appointment of an international commission of jurists to make a study of the Chinese courts before the foreign tribunals are withdrawn. Under the resolution as drawn up by the subcommittee, the governments of Spain, Norway, Sweden and Denmark, which have courts in China but are not represented here, would be invited to join in the decisions of the Washington conference.

HE DARKENED HIS GRAY HAIR

Tells How He Did It.

Mr. J. A. McCrea, a well-known resident of California, who was called Daddy and Grandpa on account of his white hair, and who darkened it with a home-made mixture, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—(adv.)

Simple Way to Take Off Fat

There can be nothing simpler than taking a convenient little tablet four times each day until your weight is reduced to normal. That's all—just purchase a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets from your druggist for one dollar, the same price the world over. Follow directions—no starvation dieting or tiresome exercising. Eat substantial food—be as lazy as you like and keep on getting slimmer. And the best part of Marmola Tablets is they are harmless. That is your absolute safeguard. Purchase them from your druggist, or send direct to Marmola Co., 461 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.—(adv.)

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Why Guess About It— When You Can Know About It?

Suppose a guide said—

"This way there's a safe and pleasant road to your destination, with no risks or troubles on the way," and—

"That way there's a road that a good many have stalled on and turned back from, but you may get through."

Which would you take?

Postum is a thoroughly agreeable and satisfying meal-time drink, and you're sure that it's perfectly safe for health. Coffee contains drug qualities which disturb and harm the health of many.

Postum or coffee? Which road?

Why guess when you can know?

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

Charm of Motherhood

THERE are many homes once childless that now are blessed with healthy, happy children, because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored the mother to a healthy, normal physical condition.

The following letters give the experience of two young women and prove the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in such cases.

Chicago, Ill.—"I was always tired, my head always ached, and my back ached until I could hardly stand the pain. I doctored for years, and the doctor said nothing but an operation would help me, and that I could not have children. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles of it and it helped me wonderfully, and I now have a fine baby boy, thanks to what your medicine did for me in restoring my health. I can highly recommend the Compound to all women who suffer from female ills."—Mrs. Wm. Reiss, 304 Willow St., Chicago, Ill.

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a very nervous condition, was irregular, and could not have any children. I took doctor's medicine without success, and he advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon felt benefitted by its use, became regular, and now we have a fine baby girl after having been married nine years. I am always glad to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my friends who suffer from such troubles."—Mrs. H. B. Held, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

"Puss" Whelchel Elected Pilot Of 1922 Georgia Grid Machine

One of South's Leading Linesmen, His Choice Was Unanimous—Letters Awarded Players.

BY JEROME JONES, JR.

Athens, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—At a banquet given to the 1921 football team of the University og Georgia tonight at the Athens Y. M. C. A., "Puss" Whelchel was unanimously elected captain of the Red and Black football team for 1922.

For the first time in many years, the choice of captain was unanimous, not another person on the team receiving a single vote. The election of Whelchel as captain of next year's team does not come as a surprise to any follower of the Bulldog team this year, as he was the logical man for the place.

His Third Season.

This is Whelchel's third year on the Georgia team, and during those three years he has been one of the mainstays of the Georgia line, being largely responsible for its reputation for holding. Last year "Puss" was mentioned by many for all-southern and this year he was picked by practically every writer in the south for one of the guard positions on all-southern teams.

A better choice than Whelchel for captain of Georgia's team could not have possibly been made. Besides being one of the oldest men on the team in point of service, his work in the line has been excellent and uniform since he played his first game with the Red and Black. "Puss" has the reputation of having blocked more kicks than any lineman that Georgia ever boasted of.

A Clean Player.

In addition to his other excellent qualities, Whelchel has the reputation of being one of the cleanest players in southern football. Very few fouls have been called on him, and none of these have been for roughness. With such a man to captain the Red and Black for 1922, Georgia should look forward to an even better football season than the one which has just closed.

The banquet Monday night to the football team was given as a compliment by the citizens of Athens as an appreciation of the excellent work of the Bulldogs this year. The leading business and professional men of Athens were in attendance, and also members of the faculty.

The banquet opened with "Glory," sung by the entire assembly. It was concluded by "Alma Mater." Five speeches were on the program, Chancellor Barrow opened with a short talk, "Our Boys." Coach Stegeman then gave a talk on the prospects of next year's team.

Reynolds Gives Talk.

Captain Owen Reynolds, captain of the 1921 team, then expressed his regrets upon severing his relations with the Georgia team. Professor Sanford, faculty chairman of athletics, then made one of his usual interesting speeches.

The speeches concluded with a few remarks by Captain Rucker, who spoke in a reminiscent vein of Georgia teams of former years. The menu for the occasion was unique, being arranged according to the Bulldog schedule and players. It was as follows: "Bulldog" turkey with "Day" dressing; "Reynolds" rice, and "Pew" gravy; cranberry sauce a la Auburn; Mercer yams; Old Dominion salad, Dartmouth cream with 'Bama cake, Furman punch, Vanderbilt celery, Harvard rolls, Georgia crackers, Clemson mints, Oglethorpe coffee.

The following Georgia men received their letters: Captain Reynolds, Joe Bennett, Anthony, Day, Whelchel, Pew, Paige Bennett, Hartley, Tanner, Otis Reynolds, Collings, Murray, Williams, Vandiver, Boney, Richardson, Spicer, Randall, Thompson, Fletcher and Pearce.

LEWIS LOSES TO ZBYSZKO

New York, November 28.—Stanislaus Zbyszko successfully defended his world's heavyweight wrestling championship at Madison Square Garden tonight, winning two falls in three from Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former champion.

Lewis obtained the first fall with a flying headlock, after 17 minutes and 31 seconds. The second, a so-called rolling fall, went to Zbyszko after 21 minutes and 26 seconds. This fall was called when Lewis, in escaping from a half Nelson and crotch hold, permitted his shoulders to strike the mat. Lewis protested the referee's decision, and left the ring, but was induced by members of the state athletic commission to continue.

The champion won the third fall and match with a double-arm lock in 14 minutes and 56 seconds.

The referee's decision in giving Zybszko the second fall, was loudly jeered by a large body of spectators.

Tonight's victory was the nine hundred and fortieth for teh champion in his 23 years of professional competition. He was defeated only once, the late Frank Gotch vanquishing him in a match that lasted but six seconds.

OSCAR MATHIESON HAS ACCEPTED CHALLENGE

Christiania, Norway, November 28. Oscar Mathieson, the world's champion speed skater, has acceptd a challenge from the Amecan professional champion, Arthur Staff, of Chicago, for a series of races for the title.

Mathieson also has received challenges from Bobby McLean, of Chicago, who was beaten by the Norwegian two years ago; Norval Baptie and Everett McGowan. As professional skating matches are not permitted here, Mathieson has announced his willingness to go to the United States this winter and meet these men on Lake Placid or Saranac lake. He already has begun training.

STRIBLING TO MEET LEONARD TONIGHT

Savannah, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—Young Stribling, of Macon, and Dick Leonard will meet at the municipal auditorium tomorrow night in a ten-round bout. Other matches for later dates announced are: Happy Littleton, New Orleans, against Jimmie Murphy; Jack Abel against Willie Schaeffer, of New York, being the principal cards.

RALPH GREENLEAF WILL DEFEND TITLE

New York, November 28.—Ralph, who won the world's pocket billiard championship for the third successive time in the recent tournament at Philadelphia, will defend his title in a challenge match here December 21, 22 and 23 against Arthur Woods, of Minneapolis, Minn. The match will consist of three blocks of 150 points.

PREP SEASON WAS SUCCESS

BY ROY E. WHITE.

In looking over the records of the past prep football season, it will be noted with interest that the teams have been closer matched than ever before and that the crowds have been larger on an average than in former years.

'Tis true that the stars developed in the league may not be as outstanding as in former years but those stars that did show up well were unusually brilliant and they have learned a world of football during the past season.

It has been the case for a number of years that the real prep stars were very few in number and that the others were mere prep football players and nothing more, but the season just past has proxen that the year of 1921 did more for the league than any previous one. The games this year have been won by smaller margins than ever before and the teams have fought harder to earn victory.

Had to Fight Hard.

The captains of the various teams have expressed the unanimous opinion that they have had to fight harder during the past few weeks than ever before in order to win a game. Especially can this be said of Laird, Richardson and Simonwitz. University was beaten by G. M. A. on one lone touchdown. Tech High was beaten by G. M. A. by one point. Tech High beat University by a small score. Tech High was doped to beat Boys' High by three touchdowns, but the final score was 19 to 7.

In looking over the past season it will be noticed that the material used this year was very green and that there will be a host of good material when another practice season rolls around. University, G. M. A., Tech High and Boys' High will lose but two or three of the players from the past teams.

That this year has been a banner one in football can be shown by the fact that Commercial High, Fulton High, Decatur High and Kirkwood High put football elevens on the gridiron for the first time in their history. Each of the above teams had practically a freshmen eleven and they are certain to be heard from in another year or two. Marist also showed more spirit in football than ever before and they are counting on developing a team to compare with Tech High and Boys' High. If present plans are developed Marist will be among the big 4 next year.

FIELD TRIALS IN FULL SWING

Waynesboro, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—The annual field trials held at Waynesboro are in full swing this week. On the first day out there are 14 braces with 40 followers. There are four trophies given the all-age member stake, the derby and the open stake. The highest stake is the member stake and it was given by the "Georgia Peach" who is not in attendance this year, but who has sent his dogs.

This field trial brings together the most prominent sportsmen in the United States. Among those present this year are Captain Ziegler, of New York city, who was one of the first to go over the top in the recent war; Col. Harry Kirkover, of Buffalo, also a famous war hero; R. H. Powell, of Denton, N. C.; Scott Hudson, formerly of Kentucky, but now of Atlanta, and who won the highest stake last year; Mr. Young, North Carolina; Mr. William Beazell, of Calhoun, Ala.; W. K. McDowell, of Charleston, S. C.

The high class professional stake will be represented by such men as Andrew Sage, New York; John K. Ottley, Atlanta; Captain Ziegler, New York; F. G. Comstock; E. D. Garr, La Grange; Ken Ladeurieux, of New York is representing the American Magazine; A. F. Hochwalt, of Dayton, Ohio, is writing up the meet for the American Field. The dogs that seem in the lead in the first day's trial are Mr. Hark, under the charge and belonging to Mr. Comstock, and Carolina Frank, belonging to Mr. Shore.

The officers of the association are Mr. Jordan, of Monticello, Ga.; Dr. E. M. Wilder, secretary of the Georgia field trial. The Atlantans who are present are J. K. Ottley, Gus Ryan and Scott Hudson. The dog that won the highest stake last year was Ted Hanson, belonging to Scott Hudson.

BOORDE AND PECK SCRAP

Columbus, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—Promoter Martin announces that he has prepared a card for fight fans of Columbus Wednesday evening that they have expected for some time. The feature of the evening will be the fight between Kid Peck and Freddie Boorde, which is slated as the main go. All who attended the fight between Peck and Boorde will remember the heavy hitting tactics of Peck and nothing further need be said regarding the class of work this boy has.

Boorde is the fighter who won a reputation as the cleanest and squarest fighter who has entered Martin's ropes to date.

Both of these boys have recently fought Young Stribbling, and are anxious to get a return match with him, so they will be seen at the height of their ability when they meet here.

Arrangements have been made for a semi-final in the form of a match between Kid Brown and Battling Riley. Both of these boys claim to be logical contenders for the bantamweight belt of the south, which at present is held by Tim O'Dowd, of Atlanta.

Brown is remembered through his recent fight with Al DeRose, and made a good showing in the face of the latter's edge in weight. Battling Riley is known as a clever rope fighter, and is generally considered the best in this vicinity in that type of generalship. He is well remembered as having fought Poyner, a good lightweight, to a draw in a recent match.

The preliminaries have not been arranged as yet, but Promoter Martin has four good boys who are rising quickly in local ring circles, and it is a possibility that the winners will be given a chance at a semi-final some time in the near future.

This is a well-picked card, states Martin, and is the result of much close observation of local fight material for some months in the past. It should meet the approval of all fans who love a close, fast, clean fight, and it is expected that a large attendance will result

Ferns and Stribling Matched

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF

Legion to Stage Great Show

Final articles of agreement were drawn, sealed, signed and delivered yesterday for a boxing bout that Atlanta has yelled for since the phenomenal pugilistic rise of Young Stribling was more or less halted by a draw decision with Fearless Ferns, in Macon. The articles call for a ten-round session between those same boys in Atlanta at the Auditorium on the night of Monday, December 5. Atlanta post of the American Legion will conduct the show.

The match wasn't closed without its difficulties. Walk Miller, manager of Ferns, has always contended that his boy got the worst of that draw decision in Macon. "You know that a man would be compelled to half kill Stribling to get a draw with him in his home town," said Walk with some justification.

This sort of talk hardly pleased "Pa" Stribling, the pugilistic as well as the actual parent of the youthful Macon warrior. "Stribling earned a draw with Ferns. If he hadn't gone into the ring with an injured back he would have killed Miller's battler," says Pa.

Miller wanted to promote a return engagement between the two. Stribling wouldn't hear of it. Stribling then wanted to promote a return engagement. Miller wouldn't hear of it. "Let us promote the quarrel, so that there won't be a chance of favoritism," said Robert B. Troutman, chairman of the Legion's boxing committee.

The rival managers looked at each other. "Suits me," said Miller. "Exactly," said Stribling—and the bout was on.

MEETING SHOULD BE WHALE OF A BOUT.

When those boys get together the pugilistic fur should fly. The statement goes literally. Ferns always has believed that he earned a clean-cut decision over Stribling. He believes that when he didn't receive what he conceives to be his just due he was knocked out of his end of some fat purses. The conqueror of Young Stribling can draw a good deal more money down in these diggings than the boy who got a draw with Young Stribling.

And Ferns has furthermore believed in his heart of hearts that the only thing that he needed to prove his superiority over the Macon sensation was the opportunity of meeting him with an impartial referee in the ring and an impartial audience seeing the show.

He will get exactly that in his fight at the Auditorium Monday night.

STRIBLING JUST AS CONFIDENT OF WINNING.

On the other hand, Young Stribling is just as confident that he can take Ferns' measure when they meet. He admit that he held Ferns too cheaply when they encountered each other in Macon, but he has been eager for the return meeting. "I believe I can stop Ferns inside of eight rounds, and you can bet I'll try," said Young Stribling a few days ago.

His followers point to the fact that it is difficult to arouse Young Stribling's pugnacity, but that once aroused, he is the dickens to deal with. They say he will not even have to be hit to be inspired to sail into Ferns. They declare that the talk spread by Ferns that he gave Stribling a wholesome beating in Macon has stirred the youthful battler as no ring punishment ever has.

"He's going to be the devil when he gets in that ring," said Stribling pere.

Young Stribling is growing fast. Right now he is dangerously near the lightweight limit. This will probably be his last fight as a 135-pounder, and his father says that he isg rowing in strength as he is growing in inches and poundage.

In his fight with Joe Matranga here last month, Stribling for the first time showed Atlanta that he has a real fighting disposition. Matranga closed his eye in the first round, and from that time on Stribling was a fighting demon who wouldn't and couldn't be denied.

FERNS IDEAL AS AN OPPONENT.

Ferns will be an ideal opponent for the Macon youngster. If he doesn't beat Stribling he will make Stribling show Atlanta fans more than he has ever shown in a local ring before.

Ferns has never backed away from an opponent and goes in fighting with both hands. He carries wicked power in either paw, and can take a punch as well as give one.

Under ordinary conditions, Stribling is a defensive fighter. His best strategy is to lash out from under a shell-like defense, and get back in that shell before his opponent can counter.

But unless I miss my guess Stribling is not going to be a defensive boxer in this muss. He wants to hurt Ferns, and the only way he can do that is by sailing into him.

Ferns will certainly sail in, which makes the conclusion fairly obvious. It will be a fight all the way through.

Johnny Glynn, well known in Atlanta pugilistic circles and prominent as a legionnaire, is in charge of the match making, and is lining up a card that he believes will be replete with entertainment.

The Legion is arranging a number of special features for the occasion, which is expected to draw one of the biggest houses of the boxing season.

TOCCOA WINS FROM WINDER

Toccoa, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—The Toccoa eleven met and defeated the strong Winder Hi team here Saturday afternoon by a score of 27-7. The game was the most interesting that has been played on the local field this year. Winder won the toss and was held for downs on her own 40-yard line. Toccoa getting possession of the ball here and by a forward pass and a number of line bucks, carried over for the first touchdown of the game. Winder scored in the second quarter and the half ended 7-7. In the second half the Winder line gave way and Toccoa scored three more touchdowns.

Toccoa scored all her touchdowns by straight football. Winder was unable to stop the powerful line plunges of Rogers and Bennett. The ground gaining of these two boys was marvelous. They ripped the line for anywhere from 2 to 20 yards at a time. Hardin also showed some pretty broken field running by returning punts. The ground gained by Winder was results of long forward passes. They soon found that the Toccoa line was not to be penetrated. One of their forward passes was intercepted by Chumbely, who ran 80 yards for a touchdown. For Winder P. Hill and Harrison played best. Harrison scored their only touchdown.

For Toccoa it seemed that every man was playing his best game of the year, although the playing of Rogers, Bennett and Andrews stood above the rest.

The line-up:

COACH EARL ADAMS ISSUES CHALLENGE TO LAVONIA TEAM

The following letter has been received by The Constitution:

"If you will grant me enough of your valuable space for this letter it will not only be greatly appreciated by me, but by the people of Toccoa.

"There is a rumor, which is very untrue and unfounded, coming from the camp of the Lavonia high school football team which reads like this: that the Toccoa football team is unwilling to meet the Lavonia team, and in view of this fact Lavoia is claiming the high school championship of 'extreme northeast Georgia,' better classed as the eighth and ninth districts. Now it is my greatest desire to let the people of Georgia know, as I have already let the Lavonia management know, that Toccoa is not only willing to meet Lavonia, but she is anxious to arrange a game with Lavonia on any date and on any grounds that Lavonia may suggest. I wish to also state that Toccoa is claiming the same championship, as she has tried in vain to arrange a game with Lavonia. Toccoa defeated Hartwell Hi by a score of 45 to 0, while Lavonia defeated the same team only 7 to 0. Toccoa has met only the strongest teams in these two districts; she has defeated them by the following scores: Commerce, 39-0; Ninth A. & M., 6-0; Winder, 27-7; Royston, 40-0 and 7-6, and Hartwell, 45-0.

"Toccoa is willing to meet any team in the above mentioned section who deems this claim unjust, providing said team's claims are well founded.

"Thanking you in advance for this favor and assuring you that it will be highly appreciated, I beg to remain,

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "EARL D. ADAMS,
"Coach Toccoa Hi."

CHARLES W. PADDOCK TO BEGIN RACING SOON

Los Angeles, Cal., November 28.—Charles W. Paddock, holder of several world's records in sprint races, has reconsidered his decision never to run again and will soon start practice for the coming track season.

Paddock will attempt to lower the world's record for the 440-yard dash sometime during the next season. He has never run over 300 yards in competition, but he says he thinks the 440-yard dash will be almost as easy as the 300-yard.

He will again represent the University of Southern California.

A. A. Doonan Answers Matheny's Statements About Southern A. A. U.

The following letter has been received from A. A. Doonan, vice president of the Southeastern Association A. A. U.:

Dear Sir: In Sunday's paper there appeared an article regarding the formation of a new American Olympic commission, which was accompanied by an interview with I. C. Matheny, of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. The statements attributed to Mr. Matheny were so erroneous and so unfair to the A. A. U., that I deem it proper that correction be made, lest these erroneous statements create wrong impressions.

In the past the formation and management of the American Olympic team has been in the hands of the American Olympic committee, which has been supported and assisted not only by the A. A. U., but by all other organizations in control of amateur athletics. It was not necessary for an athlete, in order to gain a place on the Olympic team, to be a member of a club affiliated with the A. A. U., or to be a student at any school or college; any athlete who was strictly an amateur, and could fulfill the amateur requirements, was not only eligible for this team, but every opportunity was given athletes all over the country to qualify for the team. Preliminary tryouts were had in every section of the country, and anyone who desired could make the effort to gain a place on the team, and every encouragement was given promising athletes to participate in these tryouts.

It is also well to correct the implied assertion of Mr. Matheny that only expensive clubs were affiliated with the A. A. U. Any club or organization that will accept the A. A. U. amateur standards is eligible for membership in the A. A. U., and the dues required of such club or organization are $7.50 per year. Here in this section we have recently formed a new association of the A. A. U., known as the Southeastern association, and we have made vigorous efforts to get every organization taking part in amateur athletics to become affiliated with us.

We will be very glad to accept as members of this new association any school or organization which participates in amateur athletics, and can qualify under the very strict amateur rules and regulations of the A. A. U. We have extended an invitation to all of the prep schools, colleges, clubs and similar organizations in this section, and anticipate that a great many of them will become affiliated with us.

It might be of interest, in this connection, to know that at a meeting held in New York on last Friday, November 25, the new American Olympic commission was formed, and at this meeting the suggestions made by Secretary of War Weeks for the formation of the National Amateur federation were not accepted, on the grounds that the existing Amateur Athletic union was fulfilling all of the needs which the new federation proposed, and all that is now necessary to make the cause of amateur athletics in this country even more successful than in the past, is the complete and hearty co-operation of those in authority in organizations, schools and colleges of amateur standing. Respectfully yours,
(Signed) A. A. DOONAN,
Vice President Southeastern Association, A. A. U.

N. O. SEEKING AUBURN GAME

New Orleans, La., November 28.—(Special.)—Although the game with Auburn is scheduled to be played abroad next year, Orleanians may have have the opportunity of seeing the Tiger of the Plains in action at Tulane Stadium for the second consecutive year if the plans of the Auburn Alumni of New Orleans mature.

According to members of the Tiger grid ranks, a meeting has been called to try and induce the Auburn authorities to bring the Tiger team to New Orleans again next year. Owing to the fact that New Orleans is the home of so many Plainsmen alumni and that a much larger crowd would be drawn in New Orleans, the alumni is very hopeful that it will be successful in transferring the game.

Seven hundred miles of railway track are to be torn up in Russia to repair more important lines.

Collegiate Basketball Tourney Will Decide Two Championships

Maryland, Virginia and Other Colleges Likely to Enter Big Basket Tournament.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Getting crowds to attend the inter-collegiate basketball tournament at the Auditorium is going to be about the easiest thing that Al Doonan and his committee will have to do. Right now Colonel Doonan is wondering how he's going to sort out the applications and have all the colleges that want to enter the affair properly notified of the procedure.

Atlanta fans, still talking of the splendid gridiron campaign that was brought to a close Saturday, have done little thinking about basketball, but it doesn't take long to get up enthusiasm—not when such great basket outfits are going to perform before Atlanta customers.

While the rest of us were doping the number of yards "Red" Barron would make against Penn State and Georgetown and how many more seasons it would be before some football machine succeeded in bucking Georgia's line for a touchdown, Colonel Doonan and those faithful toilers he has affiliated with him in this work were outlining plans for the big event. Now they have them just about completed.

Will be Joint Affair.

The first thing decided upon was to have the tournament a joint affair. You will recall that the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association was born here some months ago. You will likewise remember that the Southern Intercollegiate association has been through its childhood stage and is rather robust at this writing. Both athletic bodies had planned basketball tournaments. The stage was all set for partnership. The committee saw a wonderful chance and snapped it up.

So when the basketball teams of the S. I. A. A. reach Atlanta for the affair, they are going to find the teams of the newly formed conference ready for the festivities. This means that many additions will be made to the entry list. Already some of the application blanks have been filled out and sent in. The teams are training for the tournament.

Many Teams Enter.

In addition to all the teams that were in the tournament last year, when Kentucky State defeated the University of Georgia by one point and won the first title, many of the colleges in the south Atlantic states have announced their intention of entering teams.

Dr. Curley Byrd is going to bring his Maryland team down. The good teams produced by Maryland are not confined to football. Basketball is very highly developed in that section of the country and splendid outfits are produced there. The University of Virginia wants to send a team down. The Flying Squadron of the Virginia Military institute has written for particulars. The same statement holds true for the Virginia Polytechnic institute. Where the Cadets go, V. P. I. must come along to furnish any competition that might bob up. They never lose a chance to play each other. Viewing their ancient and honorable rivalry from afar, Atlanta fans are peculiarly interested in these two schools and the possibilities of seeing the teams in combat on the court would be good for a crowd any day.

It is likely that the Washington and Lee Generals will send down representation. The University of North Carolina has sent out queries and Vanderbilt is pledged to put in a team. Word has come from Baton Rouge to expect the Louisiana State university's quintet and one of the South Carolina colleges will complete the party.

JUDGE LANDIS TO GIVE OUT DECISION SOON

Chicago, November 28.—Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, will announce his decision in the Babe Ruth case within a day or two—probably tomorrow—it was learned tonight. Ruth violated one of the rules of the major leagues by taking part in a barnstorming trip after the world series.

There was no official intimation tonight as to whether Judge Landis would impose the maximum penalty of suspension from baseball or merely fine the star of the New York Americans. Since Ruth took part in the games played in October, Judge Landis has expressed himself on the subject only once, saying, "when my decision is rendered the public will know just what kind of a man Babe Ruth is."

TORNADO TO BE GUEST OF LOCAL ROTARIANS

New York, November 28.—(Special.)—The following were the ruling quotations on the American Cotton and Grain Exchange, Inc., today:

Dec.	17.36	17.90	17.28	17.95	17.70

New York, November 28.—A renewal of liquidation caused further sharp declines in the cotton market during today's early trading. January contracts selling off to 17.11 or 46 points net lower and 139 points below the high level of last week. Offerings then became smaller and a covering movement developed which sent January up to 17.70 in the late trading or 59 points above the early low and 13 points net higher. That delivery closed at 17.65 with the general market closing firm at a net advance of 3 to 25 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 17 to 30 points owing to the continued weakness of Liverpool, reports of unfavorable trade conditions in Manchester, and complaints of a continued poor demand with a declining tendency in the domestic goods market. Private cables reported increased hedge selling in Liverpool.

Similar reports were received from New Orleans, and there was also some hedge selling here accompanied by rumors that spot cotton could be purchased in some eastern belt sections on a tenderable basis. This promoted local selling as well as scattering commercial house liquidation as a result of which December eased off to 17.28 and March to 17.08 during the middle of the morning.

The market then showed the influence of a firmer technical position, as there was a distinct subsidence of selling pressure and the advance later in the day was accompanied by reports that trade and other strong interests had absorbed many contracts on the early decline.

There was also bullish comment on the situation as to pink boll worm in Texas, and probably some buying on reports of a better tone in the stock market and foreign exchange rates.

The latter was attributed partly to reports that the reparations commission had called a conference of European bankers to discuss the stabilization of exchange rates. December rallied to 17.90 and March to 17.62, and the close was within a few points of the best. Reports that the state of Louisiana had issued quarantine regulations against cotton from New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas because of the pink worm, was regarded as probably foreshadowing narrower differences between New Orleans and New York.

NEW YORK SPOTS.

New York, November 28.—Spot cotton, quiet; middling, 18.20.

ADVANCES MADE AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, November 28.—The pink boll worm was the big factor in the trading in cotton today and it brought the market out of a fairly wide decline to moderate net advances, the rise from the lowest of the session amounting to 71 points on January, which sold as low as 16.40 and as high as 17.11, finally closing at 17.09. At the highest of the day the trading months were 5 to 27 points over the last quotations of Saturday; the close was at net gains of 5 to 25 points.

The early part of the day was featured by heavy pressure against the market which was, on the opening, encouraged by a much lower Liverpool than due. Much liquidation came from the long side and as the price fell stop loss orders were caught. At first no amount of attention was paid to the pink boll worm situation and when the market got 41 to 45 points under the close of Saturday it was the realizing by shorts that checked the decline, rather than any other factor.

Baton Rouge wired the cotton exchange that the state of Louisiana had quarantined against New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas because of the pink boll worm. While it was stated that this would not interfere with the export movement of cotton through New Orleans from the quarantined area it was generally expressed that it would prevent cotton from that area from going on contract. This helped the price to some extent, but buying gradually increased on the fear that the worm would restrict acreage this coming season and from now on might be a fresh influence of importance working against the production of cotton.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, November 28.—(Special.)—Liverpool again was very disappointing this morning with private advices stating that the trade had again withdrawn, following the decline in America on Saturday. Our market did not fully meet the break abroad as sufficient rebuying by sellers of last week made its appearance on the opening to prevent a sharp break after easing somewhat during the first hour after the market recovered under the influence of a report from New Orleans that a quarantine had been declared on cotton from Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas on account of the pink boll work. The presence of this pest in Texas is causing considerable uneasiness as regards the prospects of next year's crop in that territory. We believe the market had had its reaction and will improve on the first favorable news.

RAILS IN LEAD IN STOCK TRADE

New York, November 28.—Rails and railway equipments continued to lead the further irregular price movement on the stock exchange today. The recent broad demand for high-grade and speculative bonds was well maintained.

The general stock list met occasional setbacks, however, such minor specialties as chemicals, fertilizers, sugars and mail order issues giving way to incessant selling pressure. Sears-Roebuck was conspicuously weak because of rumors dealing with the preferred stock. Foreign oils eased, in contrast to domestic issues.

Trading for the long account was favored by easier money and a brief rally in foreign exchange from the morning's low quotations. International remittances reacted favorably to unofficial reports that European bankers soon might meet to devise means of stabilizing their depreciated currencies in this country.

German marks were benefited more than any other quotation by prospects of remedial measures, sterling, francs and all the northern European rates cancelling their rally before the close of the day.

Buying of rails seemed to be based in part on better tonnage reports and the October statements of such systems as Atchison, St. Paul and the leading Pacifics and coalers, nearly all of which showed gratifying gains in net or operating incomes. The cheaper rails lost much of their advance in the heavy realizing of the last hour.

The 5 per cent opening rate for call money relaxed to 4 1-2 per cent at noon, with an abundance of private offerings at 4 per cent. Brokers reported large sums available for 30 and 60-day loans at last week's moderate concessions, but the longer maturities held firm.

Liberty and Victory issues again contributed predominantly to the heavy turnover in bonds. Liberty second 4s at $95.88 and first 4 1-4s at $97.00 established new high records, as did Victory 3 3-4s at par. Gains of 1 to 2 points were made by various underlying railroad bonds. Total sales, par value, $22,650,000.

London Money.

London, November 28.—Bar silver, 37¾d per ounce. Money, 3¾ per cent. Discount rates: Short bills, 3⅞ per cent; three months bills, 3 13-16 per cent.

Sugar.

New York, November 28.—The local market for raw sugar was quiet and unchanged at 3.87½ to 4.11 for centrifugal, with no sales reported.

The market for raw sugar futures was easier under scattered liquidation and selling by commercial houses with closing prices 2 to 6 points net lower. Reports that Cuba had started grinding the new crop probably accounted for some of the selling as it was thought it might lead to increased selling from that quarter. December closed at 2.28; March, 2.19; May, 2.29 and July 2.38.

In refined, the market continued on a hand-to-mouth basis.

Refined futures were nominal and without transactions, closing unchanged to 20 points lower. December, March and May closed at 5.25.

Coffee.

New York, November 28.—Early declines were followed by rallies in the market for coffee futures today owing to a renewal of near month support and reports that estimates of the Santos crop of 1922-23 had been placed at between five and five and one-half million bags by the Brazilian Agricultural association. The market opened at a decline of 12 points on December and of 1 to 2 points on later months, later selling 50 to 54 points net higher with March touching 8.38 and May 8.15. Closing prices were the best of the day, showing net advances of 5 to 15 points. Sales were estimated at about 33,000 bags. December, 8.60; January, 8.58; March, 8.37; May, 8.15; July, 8.04; September, 7.92.

Spot coffee firm; Rio 7s, 9@9¼; Santos 4s, 11⅞@12¼. Cost and freight offers included Santos 3s and 5s at 11.75 to 11.90 and Rio 7s at 8.70 American credits. Comparatively few orders were received and asking prices were generally higher.

The official cables reported a decline of 280 reis in the dollar buying rate with an advance of ¼ pence in Rio exchange on London. The Rio market was unchanged and Santos unchanged to 50 reis higher. Later a reaction of ¼ pence was reported in Rio exchange on London. Santos cleared 111,500 bags for the United States. Brazilian port receipts, 45,000; jundiahy receipts, 24,000.

Dry Goods.

New York, November 28.—Cotton goods were dull today, with a weaker trend on some staple lines. Yarns were lower in the knitting divisions. Wool goods were quiet, burlaps dull and raw silk slightly higher.

Provisions.

Chicago, November 28.—Pork nominal. Lard, $8.80@8.90. Ribs, $7.00@7.75.

White Potatoes.

Chicago, November 28.—Potatoes steady. Wisconsin round white bulked, $1.60@1.75 cwt.; sacked, $1.70@1.70. Minnesota and Michigan round white sacked and bulked, $1.70 cwt.

CROP CONDITION BOOSTS WHEAT

Chicago, November 28.—Heavy falling off in the estimated exportable surplus of Australia together with a record-breaking low condition of the winter crop in Kansas did a good deal today to lift the value of wheat. Prices closed unsettled, but 2 1-8 to 2 1-2 cents net higher. Corn finished unchanged to 1-8 cents up; oats unchanged to 3-8 cents off, and provisions unchanged to 55 cents higher.

The wheat market was a big broad affair, with a material increase of trade from the outside. Commission houses were especially active on the buying side, and were apparently much impressed by the Kansas state report showing a crop condition of 58.6 as against 88 last year and a 10-year average of 87. Later in the day, bullish sentiment was further stimulated by word that the leading British authority had reduced his estimate of the Australian surplus to 80,000,000 bushels, a cut of 20 per cent. A decrease in the United States visible supply total was also a bullish factor, but the effect of this influence was diminished by announcement that the figures on the Galveston stock as given out omitted to take account of grain on track. Dry weather in southern Argentina and the smallness of the Japanese rice crop continued to receive attention.

Corn and oats were relatively weak. Talk was current that the close of lake navigation would bring about stoppage of export business in corn.

Scantiness of offerings tended to strengthen provisions.

Louisiana Puts Ban On Cotton Shipments From Three States

Baton Rouge, La., November 28.—A quarantine against the shipment of cotton from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico has been put in effect by the state of Louisiana through the department of agriculture, effective on the shipment of cotton and cotton seed into Louisiana.

Cotton can be moved through Louisiana on through bill of lading, and it can be shipped through New Orleans with an export bill of lading, but cannot be shipped on a local bill of lading. This quarantine was made effective because of the appearance of the pink boll worm in Ellis and Grey counties, Texas, according to W. E. Anderson, entomologist of the department of agriculture, and the appearance of the worm in New Mexico.

ROME HORSEMAN BUYS TWO FILLIES

Rome, Ga., November 28.—(Special.)—George G. Stiles, well-known Rome horseman, bought two promising fillies at the Old Glory sale in New York last week for some of his patrons. They will be with his string on the southern circuit next season. Many, Stiles stated upon his return from New York, have the idea that race horses are cheap was entirely dispelled by the prices paid at the Old Glory sale.

Rail and Steel Stocks At High Marks Monday

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, November 28.—Predictions were made in banking circles here today that the Federal Reserve banks would announce in the near future another reduction in their rediscount rates. If these predictions materialize it will mean still higher prices for bonds and investment stocks. The extent to which the bond market has advanced since the last reduction was made in the rediscount rates is only just beginning to be realized. The tables published in this morning's papers covering the bond transactions of last week alone shows scores of advances running in individual issues three, four, five, six, seven, eight and even ten points or more. Realizing the trend of prices is upward and that the market is still full of issues offering an income return of six to eight per cent or more, investors are rushing into the bond market to buy.

Today's brief announcement that reductions of a cent a gallon have been made on export refined oil prices reflects the condition in the refined oil market pointed out in this column last week. The amount of buying power behind the market was overestimated by the refiners. They are now overstocked. Th price cutting on export business is being done to work off some of the oversupply.

Announcement over the week-end that receivers had been appointed for the Willys corporation confirmed the rumors heard here early last week that a large failure was about to be announced. This big company had been run by the banks here for months and months past. Receivership now sounds bad but the facts are that improvement in the general situation has made the receivership possible. Until now the banks tied up in this company have been afraid to come out in the open, that is afraid of the possible effect of the announcement of a receivership on other companies.

About 5,000,000 people throughout the country are going to get $150,000,000 in Christmas club checks around the 10th of next month. Some of this reflects habits of systematic saving learned during the Liberty bond campaigns. And in many cases some of the money thus saved is going into good securities.

Davidson Chemical, Sears-Roebuck and a few other industrial shares were soft today, but the rails, the railway equipment and copper stocks were strong. The steel stocks were also strong, United States Steel, common, selling at the highest price since last May, when the high for the year was made at 86 1-2. Since then the price has been down to 70 1-4.

In view of the known condition of the steel trade a great many people in Wall street cannot understand why Steel, common, should be selling at a price where the income return is only 6 per cent or less than is offered on many bonds. The answer is that more Steel, common, is held by investors today than ever before in the history of the company. Some of this stock was bought at higher prices and some at lower and the general feeling is that, with the company's very strong cash position, the 5 per cent dividend will be continued until business again picks up and that when normal conditions do return, the price will be higher. In other words, the holders of Steel, common, seem willing to hold on whatever happens in the near future in the way of trade developments. And in the meantime there are many people waiting for the stock to decline in order to buy it for a long pull. Under such conditions it is not surprising that the stock acts as it does.

Nor is it surprising that the rails should be giving a good account of themselves. At today's opening prices Atchison offered an income return of 6.7 per cent, Illinois Central 7.1, Southern Pacific 7.4, Union Pacific 7.7, Northern Pacific 8.8, Great Northern 9.2. In the best banking circles here it is confidently believed that money is going to continue to work easier, that it is only a question of time until the bond market at its present rate of activity works into such high ground that idle capital awaiting investment will turn to the seasoned dividend paying rails for speculative as well as investment returns.

Railway Earnings.

A number of railway earnings statements for October were made public today. Atchison showed gross of $22,390,000, a decrease of $2,176,000, compared with last year, but net operating income of $5,387,000 a gain of $777,000. For the ten months gross amounting to $192,370,000 was down $14,587,000, but despite this loss in gross net operating income was larger by $4,708,000. Similar reports were published by New Haven, Rock Island, Baltimore and Ohio, St. Paul, Norfolk and Western, New York Central.

Seaboard Air Line has placed an order with American Locomotive for $1,250,000 worth of equipment. A number of other railroads are in the market for new equipment, a condition that is helping both the steel and the railway equipment companies.

Over Sunday gold arrived here to the amount of over $4,000,000.

According to rumors heard in banking circles today, an extra dividend of 15 per cent will be declared by Burlington within the next few days. This will remove all doubt as to whether or not Great Northern and Northern Pacific will declare their regular quarterly 1¾ per cent next month. In some quarters it is stated that the extra Burlington dividend will not be quite as large as 15 per cent, but that it will be large enough to take the Hill stocks off the doubtful list, especially as Great Northern and Northern Pacific are now earning their 7 per cent dividend.

U. S. LAWMAKERS VISIT IN CANADA TO STUDY TAXES

Montreal, November 28.—Fifty members of the United States congress arrived today to tour Canada and study the working of the Canadian sales tax. They were welcomed by members of the board of trade and entertained at luncheon by the Canadian club.

Replying to an address of welcome, Representative Lester D. Volk, of New York, chairman of the visiting party, said he had heard Canada's taxation system described as "the fairest in the world," and he was glad of the opportunity to make a first-hand investigation.

Other American speakers were Representatives Brennan, of Michigan, and Clouse, of Tennessee. The delegates will remain here three days and then visit Ottawa.

THEATERS MOVIES

Atlanta Theater — Tuesday, Wednesday (matinee Wednesday), "The Broadway Whirl."

Lyric Theater (Keith Vaudeville)—See advertising for program.

Loew's Grand (Vaudeville and Pictures)—See advertising for program.

Howard Theater—All week, Agnes Ayres in "The Sheik," and other screen features.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

Roger Gray and company, presenting "The Traffic Cop," an entertaining melange of song, dance and chatter, win headline honors on a widely diversified and attractive bill of vaudeville at B. F. Keith's Lyric for the opening half of the week. The act was greeted by prolonged applause, that forced the performers to answer several encores.

Carl and Inez, in "A Doorstep Romeo," also are feature performers, accomplished renditions on an Hawaiian guitar being interspersed with songs, dances and jokes. Hall, Ermine and Bryce also win approval in "A Night on Broadway," a variety turn, featuring two pretty girls and a "stage drunk."

Lucile and Cockie, trained parrots, were warmly received by the younger contingent, and the Lemaize Trio were excellent tumblers and aerialists. News and feature pictures were added attractions.

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

A pleasing variety of entertainment is afforded in the bill for the first half of the week at Loew's Grand theater. In addition to the five acts of Loew vaudeville, Buck Jones, the famous cowboy film star, is presented in a smashing western picture, "Bar Nothing."

The show is opened by Hashai and Osai, Japanese athletes. Their performance, while well done, follows along the same lines as is usual with Orientals and is made up of balancing, tumbling and wire spinning.

Murphy and Klein follow with amusing chatter and some new songs which were well received by Monday night's audience.

John Byron Totten is in the number three spot. Together with his capable company he presents a splendid little playlet, "Just a Thief." It is a crook story of human interest. The lines are clever and there is a touch of pathos that adds to the interest of the story.

Race and Edge come next in "London Bridge." One of the comedians is an English character, and his description of an American baseball game is one of the hits of the show. Rounding out the program is "Francis, Ross and DuRoss, two men and an attractive young lady who introduce a number of dance novelties.

Metropolitan Theater—All week, Harry Morey in "A Man's Home," and other screen features.

Tudor Theater—All week, Harry Carey in "The Fox," and other screen features.

Rialto Theater—All week, Tom Moore in "From the Ground Up," and other screen features.

Forsyth Theater—All week, D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East."

Criterion Theater—All week, Thomas Jefferson, Jr., in "Rip Van Winkle," and other screen features.

Strand Theater—All week, "The Old Nest," and other screen features.

Vaudette Theater—Tuesday, Betty Compson in "The End of the World," and other screen features.

Alamo No. 2—Tuesday, Viola Dana in Life's Dara Funny."

Savoy Theater—Tuesday, Tom Moore in "Made in Heaven."

Alpha Theater—Tuesday, Grace Cunard in "Her Western Adventure."

"Way Down East."

(At the Forsyth.)

D. W. Griffith's greatest photoplay, "Way Down East," opened its second week run at the Forsyth theater yesterday to a large audience at both performances and from all appearances it seems as though this wonder picture could continue in Atlanta for two weeks more and always crowd the theater where it is showing.

A great number of people from the towns surrounding Atlanta are coming into the city for the special purpose of witnessing a performance of this enduring masterpiece and Manager Kaliska is being kept busy answering long distance phone calls from out-of-town people who want to make advance reservations. Several of the civic organizations of this city have bought block of seats and will attend in a body.

"A Man's Home."

(At the Metropolitan.)

That the wealthy man's home has to face as many troubles and strive as hard for happiness as the domicile of his work-a-day neighbor is one of the vital facts brought out in "A Man's Home," directed by Ralph Ince, which is playing at the Metropolitan all this week.

The production is a new type of home picture, because it differs radically from the class of pictures that have dealt with the home and its problems in the past. There is nothing theatrical about its characters, but, instead, a conscientious effort has been made to present every-day human beings and the problems that may result when a husband and wife begin to drift apart because of the accumulation of wealth.

"Rip Van Winkle."

(At the Criterion.)

"Rip Van Winkle," the newest Hodkinson release which opened last night at the Criterion theater, where it will fulfill a week's engagement, is a picture which will certainly delight every type of theatergoer, for its contains every single element that makes for success.

There is comedy, clean, fast-moving, side-splitting and tense drama to hold you engrossed. The choice of players was a singularly fortunate one, for each artist is admirably suited to his or her role.

Thomas Jefferson, as "Rip," gives a masterful performance. And his supporting cast, which includes Milla Davenport, Pietro Sosso, Francis Carpenter—the child actor—Max Asher and Daisy Robinson, is almost equally gifted.

"The Old Nest."

(At the Strand.)

A genuine American photoplay at last! "The Old Nest," a story of mother love and self-sacrifice common to every family the world over, which was shown at the Strand theater last night, is the work of Rupert Hughes, the eminent American novelist. It was produced by Goldwyn and directed by Reginald Barker. There is humor and there are tears in this plain story of daily life as we all know it. Not a person in the audience was free from the grip of its appeal.

"The End of the World."

(At the Vaudette.)

Betty Compson, the pretty heroine of "The Miracle Man," and one of the screen's leading emotional actresses, is again in the limelight. This time as a Paramount star and in her initial production under that banner, "At the End of the World," which was shown at the Vaudette theater Monday. She achieved a triumph by her artistic portrayal. The new picture concerns the love affairs and vicissitudes of "Cherry," the daughter of an Englishman, who runs a cafe and gambling house in Shanghai, China. It is a dramatic story, well presented and supplies many thrilling moments.

Harry Carey.

(At the Tudor.)

Harry Carey, threw another hitch around the hearts of playgoers Monday when he illuminated the screen of the Tudor theater with "The Fox," his first Universal-Jewel super-feature. His first Jewel picture is well worthy to follow the long line of photodramas by which the noted western actor has established himself.

"The Fox" stacks up, all in all, as one of the best dramas of the open country ever filmed and it is particularly pleasing to those who regard Harry Carey as the foremost western actor on the screen.

"The Fox," as it was written by Harry Carey, concerns a woe-begone tramp who is thrown from a freight train to play a most important part in the destiny of a small desert town.

Priscilla Dean.

(At Tudor Next Week.)

At the height of her screen career, Priscilla Dean will be seen at the Tudor theater next week in "Conflict," the Universal-Jewel feature produced by Stuart Paton, remembered for his direction of Miss Dean's preceding success, "Reputation." In the role of Dorcas Remalie, Miss Dean enters the story as a pampered child of wealth, who, in accordance with her father's will, is sent to live with an uncle in the Big North woods. Complications of the most dramatic sort enter her life.

Miss Dean is supported by a strong cast, including Herbert Rawlinson, Ed. Connelly, Hector Sarno, Martha Mattox, Olah Norman, L. C. Shumway, Sam Allen, C. E. Anderson, Milt Brown and Bill Gillis.

Audience Regrets Curtains Fall on "Broadway Whirl"

Perhaps some carping critic of show satiated New York could find some trouble with "The Broadway Whirl of 1921" which opened last night for a half week at the Atlanta Theatre, but we tired business men of the provinces sat through that show an revelled every instant of its two hours and a half and were sorry when the curtain came down and were glad when it went up again and Blanche Ring sang a little epilogue and were sorrier than ever when we were forced to the realization that we'd have to wait until 1922 or longer before we'd get another whirl.

It's been sometime since we've had just that type of entertainment way down here in Atlanta. I'm not speaking particularly of the galaxy of stars presented by the whirl. Stars are frequently venturesome enough to tour the provinces. But it's been a long, long time when every girl in the chorus was young and a longer time since every girl in the chorus was possessed of loveliness.

Everybody Was Pleased.

Very, very probably New York is fed up on the policy of personal contact to bring popularity to a show. Atlanta is not. It enjoyed Blanche Ring making her entrance through the audience. It had a few conniption fits when it was called on to button the coryphees up the back. It yelled in a vociferation of appreciation when the cuties cut the cuticles, particularly of an old gentleman on the very front row, who was as game as partridges, and it did a thing that audiences rarely do. It responded to Miss Ring's gestured appeal to join her in singing "Yip-I-Addy."

All going to show that everybody had a rather clubby time at the Atlanta last night—delightfully informal and that sort of thing.

"The Whirl" is for purposes of amusement only. I take it that it's very New Yorky, principally from the comedy lines, which are to the effect that prohibition is a joke instead of a grim reality, as theatrical New York still insists. The costumes are very chic and likewise abbreviated, but hardly to the point of shock, but strangely enough and fortunately enough, the company is blessed with humorists who do not have to depend on suggestion for their laughs.

There is a vast amount of skill and a vast amount of diplomacy displayed in the stage management of the "Whirl." Four stars are advertised and the work and the spotlight are equally divided. The audience has equal opportunity to be charmed by the dainty beauty and splendid singing voice of Winona Winter, the magnetic personality and dashing grace of Miss Ring, the exuberancy of Jay Gould, and the marvellous eccentricity and versatility of Charles Winninger —and lest we forget, though her name does not decorate the billboards, the fairy grace of Nina Penn.

Cyclone Rapidity.

The "Whirl" goes off with cyclonic rapidity. The audience is never permitted to settle back after one act before there is another of equal charm before it. Before it has focused its eyes on the stage, it is given the supposedly threadbare restaurant comedy with Miss Winter, Mr. Gould and Mr. Winninger working in a way that makes it brand-new and the audience is howling a spontaneous approval withal.

Atlantans are familiar with the work of three of the stars, but Mr. Gould is a newcomer to the south. His impression is a lasting one. He is a straight juvenile comedian with a refined way of getting laughs and as a dancer his equals have been few and far between.

Miss Winter never appeared here under more charming environment than when she sang a ballad of real musical merit, which the program was not kind enough to name, and she appeared in an entirely new role, when she proved herself a comedienne of no mean ability in both the movie and the passport skits.

It was in these bits that the stars really reached their heights. In both they received splendid support from Bay Maxson, a fine dry comedian.

Power of Association.

However, the power of association holds. Whatever else Miss Ring may do, she will always be remembered by "Rings on My Fingers" and "Yip I Addy," and whatever Charles Winninger may do in the future, and there are no comedy heights that he may not scale, he will never be able to get away from his slide trombone. It was nothing but natural, then, that the audience should warm to Miss Ring as it warmed to no other feature of the performance, when she went over her old songs, particularly as Mr. Winninger was on hand to play a trombone obligato.

Space doesn't permit the discussion of the ensembles that they deserve. Let it be here said that the ensemble members are young enough, and vivacious enough, and fair enough and graceful enough to please the most blase.

Let us hope for a Whirl in 1922.

he announced his intention, they said, of attending the Army-Navy game on the following day.

It has since been learned that Colonel Whittlesey purchased a ticket for Havana the following morning and sailed that day.

His business associates declared that his mind was clear and that he apparently was in good health otherwise when last seen. He seemed cheerful, they added, and declared they were unable to explain his seemingly strange action in going away as he did without notifying them of his plans.

Was Bachelor.

C. W. Whittlesey, the soldier's uncle, declared tonight that Colonel Whittlesey attended the services for the Unknown Dead at Washigtin on Armistice day and had since appeared depressed. Mr. Whittlesey said that he last saw his nephew on Friday evening and that he did not notice any decided change in his demeanor at that time.

Colonel Whittlesey, who was 36 and unmarried, lived in a bachelor apartment on East 44th street. When he appeared at breakfast Saturday morning he brought a suit case down from his room. He did not say where he was going, and his friends did not consider the circumstances unusual because he was in the habit of making frequent week-end and buisness trips.

Colonel Whittlesey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Whittlesey, of Pittsfield, Mass. He has two brothers, Elisha, of Pittsfield, and Melzar, of this city.

Battlefield Classic.

The crisp, laconic reply: "You go to hell!" hurled into the teeth of a German officer who called on him and his men to surrender, was the rhetorical battlefield classic which brought Colonel Whittlesey into fame overnight.

Surrounded in the Argonne with his command, the first battalion of the 308th infantry, 77th division, Whittlesey had been cut off for four days without food or fresh water. All but 87 men had been killed or wounded. At dusk on October 7, 1918, a blindfolded German bearing a white flag crossed the line. He bore a message asking the Americans to surrender "in the name of humanity."

A few hours after the messenger had been sent back with Whittlesey's reply, an American advance took place and all were rescued.

His exploit was rewarded by President Wilson with the congressional medal of honor, the most cherished American wartime decoration, given only for valor outside the regular line of duty. Some months after the armistice the German officer who commanded Whittlesey's surrender added to his laurels by publishing a statement extolling the American's courage and determination.

the leading window-glass manufacturers of the United States and about two-thirds of the window-glass industry.

The defendants are all charged generally with a combination and conspiracy to suppress competition, to maintain arbitrary, excessive and extortionate prices, to curtail the production and supply of window glass and arbitrarily to control the sale, shipment and delivery of window glass into the southern district of New York, as well as in other parts of various states.

For the purpose of effectually carrying out the alleged conspiracy to arbitrarily fix excessive prices, it is charged an agreement was entered into with the labor union of the National Window Glass Workers through Mr. Neenan, whereby the quantity to be produced annually by each of said manufacturers, the period within which the manufacturers were to operate their plants and factories and the amount to be manufactured by each of the employees were predetermined and prescribed. It is alleged further that in pursuance of this agreement the employees did not engage their services to any manufacturer who did not sign the so-called "wage scales" and that as soon as a manufacturer had produced the amount of window glass prescribed in the scale, the employees were withdrawn and that fines and penalties were imposed upon the employees by their union for violation of this agreement.

Novel Scheme.

A statement issued by Mr. Hayward, said in part:

"Our investigation unearthed a novel scheme adopted by these defendants for extortionate price-fixing. Ordinarily, among these combinations, we find an open price plan or an open competition plan. The defendants in this instance took no such chances with each other. They simply designated one concern as an exclusive 'selling agency.' That sales agency just fixed prices for the group and allocated the various jobs to the various companies. To make certain that this price-fixing scheme would not be handicapped by an oversupply of window glass in the market they tied up the labor unions in an agreement which insured the curtailment of the production of window-glass so as to keep the supply always sufficiently below the demand, to give the price-fixing end of the combine a clear field."

Discussing the labor features of the indictment, David L. Podell, who has been specially retained by the government for the prosecution of building trades cases declared:

"It is quite true that certain immunities are granted to labor organizations under the anti-trust laws, particularly the Clayton act and the civil sundries bill, but those immunities cannot be extended to cover any acts which are clearly a part of a general scheme or conspiracy to restrain trade and whose primary motive is to curtail the production of a commodity. A wage scale ordinarily in its usual sense, is entirely legal and may be adopted by any labor organization either with or without agreement with their employees but where it is obvious that the wage scale is merely a subterfuge or device to accommodate manufacturers in their efforts to curtail the supply, it is just as clearly illegal and a violation of the Sherman law."

KATO SAYS JAPS NEED 70 PER CENT RATIO

States believes that the plan later presented safeguards the interests of all concerned. Let me emphasize again that in order to safeguard the interests of the Japanese empire 70 per cent is necessary. If the ratio of 70 per cent is accorded to Japan this does not mean the purpose of the conference is defeated, because as I have pointed out before, the main purpose of the present meeting in Washington is limitation of armaments. The relativity of tonnage is not the principal issue."

In conclusion, Vice Admiral Kato continued that the capacity of Japan to replace her warships was infinitely less than that of the United States. Japan, he said, would be quite unable with her present shipbuilding and industrial strength and taking into account the paucity of her raw material, more especially steel, to engage successfully in competition as to replacement of ships.

Steel Output.

"For instance," he said, "do you realize that the yearly output of steel in Japan is only 800,000 tons, whereas in the United States the yearly output is almost 33,000,000 tons? Under these circumstances it is quite impossible for Japan to think of entering into any race with any strong industrial power in case any difficulty should unhappily arise in the future. It would almost be better to abolish all capital ships entirely. It would certainly be fairer to Japan, which in asking for seven ships to every ten of the other greater industrial powers, is merely putting forth a request that seems to me to be eminently fair and reasonable, based as it is on all to the questions which enter into the maintenance of a navy."

In conference discussions on the question of ratio, Japan appears to be adhering to her six-group classification as to measurement and is particularly insisting upon the point that ships under construction should not be counted in estimating existing strength of a navy. The various classifications give her 70.5 per cent as an average compared with the American navy. According to one conception of the conference work the American contention is that super dreadnaughts and dreadnaughts and all ships under construction should be logically taken as the basis of measurement. Under this plan it is stated that America counts the estimated tonnage of ships when they are actually completed, although some of them have only been started. Under this classification also it is stated that the American figures place the present Japanese navy somewhat under 50 per cent as compared with that of the United States and Great Britain.

EVERYBODY IS DRIVING A USED CAR

DISMISS the idea that a used automobile is a piece of worthless machinery that somebody else has passed up because of unreliable performance.

Any car becomes a used car the first day it is out of the salesroom. More than often the only actual difference between a used car and a new one is a big difference in price.

Right now we are offering a fine assortment of exceptionally fine used cars at big reductions in price.

We will make you a liberal allowance for your present car. You may take advantage of our very satisfactory Deferred Payment Plan, so you may enjoy the ownership of a Cadillac, paying for it as you drive. It will PAY YOU TO PAY US a visit to see these cars.

DEFENSE SPRINGS SURPRISE MONDAY IN COOK TRIAL

Augusta, Ga., November 28.—A sensation was sprung here today in the trial of W. H. Cook, Sr., and Ben Cook, father and son, charged with the murder of John Larsen, when attorneys for the defense inquired of Mrs. Larsen, the slain man's widow, as to reports concerning the manner in which Mrs. John S. Cook, mother of W. H. Cook, came to her death.

Mrs. Larsen, the pretty girl widow, who took the stand, denied that intimations had been made during an argument at the Cook home, to the effect that the Cooks had played a part in the grandmother's death. The witness admitted that her mother had been told by Larsen that he understood the finger of suspicion was pointing toward him and that he intended to have the body disinterred to prove no foul play had been perpetrated by him.

John Larsen married Miss Tillie Cook, while the Pennsylvania soldiers were in Augusta. He later carried his wife to Butte, Mont., but she returned here a few months ago when her mother sent the sheriff at Butte $200 with instructions to buy a ticket and place the girl on the train for Augusta. Larsen soon followed the Cook home until about ten days ago, when Mrs. Larsen's father and brother shot Larsen to death.

Mrs. Long was 21 years of age and the shooting which resulted in her death is said to have been accidental.

Both her husband, W. F. Long, and her father were with her when she died. Miss Long has not been arrested.

The body was shipped to Coley, Ga., today for funeral and interment.

Sees Persecution Of Mary Pickford In Divorce Case

Carson City, Nev., November 28.—Mary Pickford is being persecuted because she is famous—that is the answer of the picture star, through her attorneys, to the effort of Attorney-General Leonard B. Fowler, of Nevada, to set aside her divorce from Owen Moore.

Her answer to the suit is now filed with the state supreme court, and it will be that body's duty to determine whether she came to Nevada in good faith and got her divorce, or whether she conspired with her ex-husband for him to step out of the way quickly so she could marry Douglas Fairbanks.

The answer of Mary's attorneys to Attorney-General Fowler's appeal from the decision of Judge Frank P. Langan, granting her the divorce, sizzles with charges against the state officer.

Fowler assumed powers never granted him, he acting without the law and every precedent, and he is attempting to act as a "superlaw" against the little person because she is the darling of the movies.

These are the sentiments of Gavin McNab, who wrote the bill for Mary.

"The people of Nevada could not have contemplated that it should be left to the temper, prejudice or caprice of any official whether the law should or should not be applied, nor that he should confine the operation of the law to one person alone merely because that person was famous," the answer recites. "Nevada has defined the authority of her courts, and the authority of other officials. She has given no power to attorneys-general such as the present attorney-general has invented. What the people have not given, the attorney-general can not appropriate to himself."

Two Men Detained After Dynamiting Of Steel Bridge

Marked Tree, Ark., November 28.—Two men were being detained here today and others are being sought by city and county officials who have joined forces in an investigation of the dynamiting last night of the county bridge over St. Francis river here, a steel frame structure erected fifteen years ago at a cost of approximately $30,000.

About 40 feet of the bridge was wrecked by the explosion which let go with such force as to shake buildings within a radius of half a mile. Scores of window glasses were broken here.

The explosion occurred shortly before midnight, 15 minutes after a youth told the police that he had overheard two men declaring their intention to dynamite the structure. Police hurried to the scene but were too late to prevent the explosion.

Officials directing the investigating stated today they had been unable thus far to definitely establish a motive which might have prompted the destruction of the bridge which is situated on the outskirts of Marked Tree and was an important link in the Ozark Trail highway connecting this city and Harrisburg, the county seat.
